New Impetus Will Cost U.S. Billions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Americans Thursday to shoulder new multi-billion-dollar burdens to conquer space and extend foreign aid.

In an extraordinary State of the Union message, delivered in person to Congress, Kennedy said the U.S. must aim to land a man on the moon this decade.

AID INCREASE

He said it must speed work on the Rover nuclear rocket which some day may help explore "the very ends of the solar system."

And he called for:

- A step-up in foreign aid.
- A tripling of funds for nuclear fallout shelters and other protective measures.
- Revamping and strengthening of military forces, especially their ability to fight brush-type battles or guerrilla warfare.
- More money for propaganda broadcasts.
- A new drive for disarmament.
- A new program to retrain Americans left jobless by automation.

THE PRICE

The price of all this he set at $1,500,000,000 in the coming fiscal year and many more billions later. For example, he said the speeded-up space drive will cost an additional $7,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 over the next five years and will go on for many years.

NO NEW TAXES

Kennedy said no new taxes. In fact, he took the position that his "very urgent requests" could be met "without a budget deficit if our economy moves ahead."

"The president was interrupted several times by applause, notably when he proclaimed that the economy is looking up."

"RECESSION HALTED"

"The recession has been halted. Recovery is under way," he said.

"Though recovery is underway, unemployment is 'a major social evil,' he said, and hence:

"I am transmitting to the Congress a new manpower development and training program, to train or retrain several hundred thousand workers in new occupational skills over a four-year period, in order to replace those skills made obsolete by automation and industrial change with the new skills which new processes demand."

MILITARY BUDGET

Other proposals:

Economic aid abroad — $250,000,000 increase, bringing the total for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to $2,650,000,000.

Military aid abroad — $235,000,000 increase over previous requests of $1,600,000,000.

Space for the coming year $679,000,000 additional to work on the moon project, hasten development of the nuclear space rocket, speed up the use of satellites for world communications and weather observation.

REVIEW CALLED

Intelligence — "Our whole intelligence effort must be reviewed, and its coordination with other elements assured."

Integration — he called on Americans to "show friendship to students and visitors from other lands."

Bennett Optimistic About Columbia After Fleming Chat

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Thursday night he is optimistic about the progress of the Columbia River hydro-electric development after private talks Thursday with federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Both spoke at a meeting of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association.

A spokesman for Premier Bennett said the premier and Mr. Fleming talked mainly about financing of the giant project. The meeting was described as "short but harmonious."

Mr. Fleming indicated later that efforts will be made in the next two weeks to select a date for another meeting.

British Columbia wants federal permission to export surplus hydro-electric power on a leased basis.

"TRADITIONAL"

In his speech, Premier Bennett said his province considers it urgent that the federal government "bring up to date" its export policy on hydro-electric power.

"I am referring, of course, to the traditional opposition of national governments to the export of surplus hydro-electric power," Mr. Bennett said.

NON-RENEWABLE

The premier said natural gas, oil and coal all were exported.

"Every one of these resources is used to produce power," he added, "and every one of them is non-renewable; the day will surely come when we will have no more gas, oil or coal either for export or even for our own use."

Japan Fights Polio Wave

TOKYO (Reuters) — An emergency cargo of vaccine was sent to southern Japan Thursday to help combat a polio epidemic. The Japanese welfare ministry said there is enough vaccine for 300,000 persons.

A large number of people, he said, had come to look upon armed forces equipment as the whole gamut of defence policy. There would always be arguments.

"Our forces at present are based on commitments we have made to NATO, NORAD and for any work we may be called upon to do for the United Nations," said Mr. Harkness.

During the past three or four years the government had been "quite rapidly" re-equipping all the armed forces, he said.

But, he emphasized, the primary purpose of all our armed forces was to prevent a war.

"The Conservative government is the only party in Canada which has a clear and definite defence policy and one readily understood by everyone," he said.

This policy had two objectives:

To maintain peace and;

ALARM BEING SPREAD BY GRITS--HARKNESS

Pearson Accused Of A-Bomb Scare

By PETER BRUTON

Defence Minister Douglas Harkness last night accused Liberal Leader Lester Pearson of trying to frighten and alarm people about nuclear weapons and defence.

"This action I deplore," he told an audience of 120 at Cordova Bay.

Canada's primary aim, he said, was to try to bring about agreement on world disarmament. If this was successful, there would be no need for nuclear weapons.

"In the meantime there is no need to make a decision in this regard," said the minister, speaking in support of Conservative candidate George Chatterton.

Even if Canada did decide to acquire nuclear weapons, there was no chance of any of the types planned starting off a nuclear war, he continued.

"They can only be used as defensive weapons," stated Mr. Harkness. "Talk of Canada joining the nuclear club is just propaganda and has no real validity. Prudence requires we should have carriers which can be equipped with nuclear warheads if this terrible necessity ever arises."

'Arrow Great Mistake'

During his speech Mr. Harkness:

● Charged Mr. Pearson with advocating Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons three years ago.

● Said Liberal defence policy was to do away with the RCN's destroyer-escorts and make the navy "some sort of glorified merchant marine."

● Described development of the Avro Arrow jet interceptor as probably one of the greatest mistakes any government has ever made.

● Titled the Conservatives the only party with a clear defence policy.

● Stated Canada must remain in NATO and NORAD.

● Blamed "the Liberal press" for trying to create the impression that he and External Affairs Minister Howard Green were at odds over nuclear weapons.

Mr. Harkness said the nuclear weapons for the three types of carriers Canada had on order could never be used as offensive weapons.

He said there never had been any intention of Canada obtaining big offensive nuclear weapons "and Mr. Pearson knows that."

'Pearson Memory Bad'

Reading excerpts from Hansard of 1958, the minister said the Liberal leader had openly urged Canada to get nuclear weapons for its forces at that time.

"Now he's trying to frighten and alarm people about nuclear weapons and defence... Nobody knows where the Liberals stand."

"Every time Mr. Pearson has made a speech since the Liberal rally last January he has changed his position. He changes his position. He squirms and he giggles. He has been going here and there, in and out until you don't know what his position is," said the minister.

"The record of Mr. Pearson is one in which no one could take any pride. He either has a very bad memory or a great capacity to delude himself," he added.

Mr. Harkness stated: "The time to make the decision about acquiring nuclear weapons is when the time comes."

Referring to the Liberal leader's remarks about the scrapping of the Avro Arrow jet interceptor, the defence minister stated that the planes would have cost $15,000,000 each and that the huge cost would have meant "scrapping much of the army and navy strength."

"The cost would have been astronomical," he said.

"Under these circumstances I don't think anyone can take Mr. Pearson seriously any more," he said. "You can be sure what he says today won't be what he is saying a month from now."

Mr. Harkness said Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer had urged the replacement of Canada's destroyer-escorts and to acquire combat troop carriers and supply ships in their place.

'Purpose to Prevent War'

"The Liberal policy, as I see it, is to convert our navy into some sort of glorified merchant marine," he said.

The minister stated that Canada's destroyer-escorts were probably the finest in the world and the RCN's major role is anti-submarine warfare for which these ships are designed.

A large number of people, he said, had come to look upon armed forces equipment as the whole gamut of defence policy. There would always be arguments.

"Our forces at present are based on commitments we have made to NATO, NORAD and for any work we may be called upon to do for the United Nations," said Mr. Harkness.

During the past three or four years the government had been "quite rapidly" re-equipping all the armed forces, he said.

But, he emphasized, the primary purpose of all our armed forces was to prevent a war.

"The Conservative government is the only party in Canada which has a clear and definite defence policy and one readily understood by everyone," he said.

This policy had two objectives:

To maintain peace and;

To ensure that this country was not subjected to a foreign power and a way of life completely foreign.

These objectives could be met through NATO and NORAD.

"No country can adequately defend itself by itself, not even the U.S.," he said. "You can't."

Cafe Blast Hurts Seven

WINNIPEG (CP)—At least seven persons were injured Thursday night when an explosion ripped apart a restaurant on Main Street in north-end Winnipeg.

The Prague Cafe was open and occupied at the time of the blast, which tore the roof off the building and sent flames shooting into the sky. Several other buildings were damaged.

Fire Chief Dave Dunnett said he could not be certain, but he did not think anyone was trapped in the restaurant.

The lawyer senator said he wasn't against the bill—just the trend it represented.

Dip in Juvenile Crime First in Many Years

OTTAWA (CP)—The first decrease in many years in the number of juveniles involved in criminal offences is noted in the RCMP's annual report for the year ended March 31, 1960, made public Thursday.

The number involved in Criminal Code offences totalled 6,055, a decrease of 269 or 4.3 per cent from the previous year.

Alaska-B.C. Link Closer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A report calling for a vast program of rail and highway communications between Alaska and the rest of the United States across Canada was recommended to Congress Thursday.

FINAL REPORT

The long-range transportation program, which would also include water links, would cost an estimated $255,000,000. It was recommended in the final report of the Alaska International rail and highway commission.

Senator Warren Magnuson, Democrat from the state of Washington, presented the report to the U.S. Senate.

Magnuson emphasized that the plan could be realized only with the co-operation of Canada. The report suggests that the U.S. state secretary undertake negotiations with the Canadian government.

Specifically, Magnuson said, the report calls for:

● The construction of a hard-surfaced highway system to serve Alaska, British Columbia and the Yukon and to provide a shorter highway than the existing Alaska Highway.

● The extension of the Alaska railroad to he Alaska-British Columbia border to connect eventually with a Canadian railway.

Senator Lambasts Firms For Jobs Discrimination

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator David Croll lambasted Canadian big business Thursday for practicing what he called discrimination against minority groups in filling executive positions.

The Ontario senator also hit out at the trend toward amalgamation of big corporations, and at discrimination favoring men over women in business.

AGAINST TREND

Senator Croll spoke at the upper chamber passed a bill authorizing the Canada Permanent Company to amalgamate with the Toronto General Trust Corporation. The bill now goes before the Commons.

The lawyer senator said he wasn't against the bill—just the trend it represented.

Few banks, mortgage companies, insurance and trust companies have permitted their high executive positions

No Marx In Their Program!

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Communist party of Manitoba has volunteered to step forward and teach the Red credo in the red school-houses of Canada in answer to a call by the RCAF Association for courses on communism.

This wasn't quite what the RCAF Association had in mind, a spokesman said last night. The course it recommended was "the dangers of communism."

Europe 'Split' Rapped

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sir Oliver Franks, British banker, insurance executive and former ambassador to the United States said Thursday in an interview here, division of Western Europe into the Outer Seven and Inner Six trading areas is nonsense.

"It is against the natural flow of trade. I would be surprised if it is a long-term permanent state of affairs."

Sir Oliver will receive an honorary degree at the University of British Columbia today.

He said he saw little likelihood of Britain joining the European Common Market.

SEN. DAVID CROLL
...banks criticized

'Minorities Ignored'

"To me it is disturbing and alarming to find that more and more economic power is becoming centralized in fewer and fewer hands."

Senator Croll named no specific companies as practicing discrimination toward minority groups but he lambasted particularly banks, mortgage, insurance and trust companies.

MATTER OF RACE

Few banks, mortgage companies, insurance and trust companies have permitted their high executive positions and directorates to be filled by men whose racial origins differ from that of Anglo-Saxons.

The 61-year-old senator came to Canada from Moscow at the age of five and is Canada's first Jewish senator.

Senator Croll said the thinking seems to be that it's all right to do business with minorities "but keep them from going as far as their capabilities would and should take them."

"BLIND ALLEY"

"This sort of reactionary exclusiveness has no place in nation-building or organizational concept and permanence, and these managerial groups who are attempting to perpetuate themselves are leading us down a blind alley."

As for women, he said, "you would almost think they were non-existent."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

BROOM is in blossom and children are beginning to set up roadside lemonade stands. Summer must be here.

The junior merchant with his mother's kitchen jug on a box and a crudely lettered sign has been a stock figure of magazine covers for many a year.

But there is something touching about these first ventures into the world of commerce. They are so naive and free from trickery. Make some lemonade, stand the jug on a box, put up a sign, and that's all.

I was driving down Bay Street yesterday when I saw a lad frantically waving a board in my direction. I could barely make out the inscription: "Lemonade." Not enough color contrast.

I was tempted to halt the car and buy some. However, I had an appointment; other cars were crowding close behind me, and I was travelling 30 miles an hour. I didn't want to risk smashed fenders and bumpers, even to help a small merchant out of a business slump.

Back at the office I told a photographer about the lad. "Aw, not another kid with lemonade stand picture," he groaned. He went looking for the child all the same, but couldn't find him.

Either he had become disgusted, or my memory had played a trick on me, and I had given the photographer the wrong directions. Too bad.

Earlier this month I wrote a piece about the way that my own little boy had fallen in trouble by cutting down most of the tulips in the garden (with about one inch of stem) and offering them for sale.

He was beaten for it.

Yesterday there arrived a letter with a San Diego, Calif., postmark, and the following message:

"Dear Sir: Will you kindly deliver the enclosed envelope to 'The Boy' who was the little flower merchant in your article in the Colonist of May 7, 1961."

"I had a similar experience many years ago, and still remember the punishment, even though I meant no harm."

"I couldn't resist the temptation to make a purchase from him, along his own little idea, and sincerely hope you will take no offence."

"Sincerely, A Grandmother."

At the time of writing I have not yet had a chance to take the sealed envelope to the boy, but I can feel a coin inside. I wish I knew the lady's name. She shouldn't have done it—but I'm glad she did.

I'm guilty of being sentimental, I know. But I can't help being saddened by the figure of the small merchant, trying to sell a simple line of goods, without benefit of singing commercials, subliminal advertising, $100 trade-in for your old wash-tub, or any of the other gimmicks that grown-up merchants use.

I hope the grown-up merchants won't be offended when I say this—but I hope my boy never learns them.

Your Good Health

More Protein with Meals Helpful for Brittle Nails

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: What should I do for brittle, dry nails which resemble fish scales?"
M.B."

A very common complaint—nails are some frequent causes.

● Nail polish—most women suffer no ill effects, but some do have trouble. Try going without it for a couple of months. If you see any improvement, then stay away from it longer.

● Nutrition—more protein in the diet and vitamin B are helpful. A daily ration of plain gelatin sometimes aids. Gelatin is a form of protein, although it does not contain as many of the essential types as do lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese.

● Injury to the base of the nail—some women, using metal to press back the cuticle while manicuring, unknowingly damage the nail as it is forming. That's why it's smart to use gently an orange stick instead of a nail file.

● Subnormal thyroid—many subnormal physical conditions contribute to fragile nails. If your health isn't up to par, by all means have a check-up. Improvement of your nails will be a minor advantage compared to the greater good of regaining robust health.

● Use of hands—people who are engaged in hard work with their hands have strong, tough nails. If you have a sunny back yard, a summer of grubbing in the earth every day, keeping a garden going, may do a lot—although, of course, if you take pride on long pointed nails, you'll wish with our doubt break 'em all.

Of course, it doesn't have to be gardening, but any type of manual labor.

You've got to allow time for any of the above remedies to show results.

"Dear Dr. Molner: We have heard that parakeets spread a certain type of disease. Is this true? We have a very lovely bird and would hate to part with him.—M.K."

Disease is spread by parakeets only if they have the disease! It is psittacosis, or "parrot fever." A parakeet cannot spread the disease unless he has the germ in the first place.

The danger is for the most part from birds imported without proper inspection and quarantine. Your protection is to buy parakeets only from reputable dealers, in which case you need have no fear. No need at all to get rid of a healthy pet bird of this type.

Land Without Rush Puts Off Suicide

CYRIL CHAPMAN
"... so important"

Mexico, land of "manana"—tomorrow—has the lowest suicide rate of any country in the world. The fact is no surprise to students of this social problem, such as Lt. Col. Leonard D. Evenden of the Salvation Army.

Col. Evenden is director of the Army's new anti-suicide bureau and is now on a cross-Canada tour to set up local bureaus.

Suicide rates, he has noted in a close study, are prone to reflect rapid change in economic development, and a human failure to keep up with the change.

B.C. PROBLEM

Highest rate, he told the Victoria Rotary Club yesterday, is more than 30 per 100,000 population in West Berlin. Canada is well down the list with 7.5 per 100,000.

British Columbia apparently has a problem, he said, for its rate of 11.4 is highest of any province.

Col. Evenden said he asked a Vancouver official why this province had such a high figure. The answer: "Because we keep better statistics."

MORE WOMEN TRY

Statistics incidentally indicate that more women try suicide than men but more men are successful than women.

The bills provide for free

Under a bill designed to fa- cilitate university training of teachers, the province will make 300 grants, worth be- tween $1,200 and $3,500, each year. These will be offered to teachers in secondary and normal schools and in classical colleges. They will also be available to university students studying to become teachers.

The obligatory school attend- ance age is being raised to 15 as a first step before increas- ing it to age 16. Mr. Gerin- Lajoie said.

The government will take over responsibility for levying and collecting a 2 per cent re- tail sales tax for education everywhere in the province.

Teaching Veteran Dies Here

Member of the B.C. Teachers' Federation since its inception, Miss Charlotte A. Clayton died Wednesday in a private hospital here after a prolonged illness.

Miss Clayton was a native of Manitoba and came to Victoria as a child with her parents.

After teaching for a time in Victoria elementary schools, she joined the BCTF and made her headquarters in Vancouver. When she retired six years ago she was assistant secretary of the federation.

Returning to Victoria, Miss Clayton became interested in several city organizations. Until a few months ago she was honorary secretary of the English Speaking Union.

Tour of B.C. Planned For Buyers

PRINCE GEORGE, C.P.—A tour of British Columbia by prospective lumber buyers from European Common Market countries is being arranged for next year by the British Columbia government, Trade and Commerce Minister Bonner announced yesterday.

The tour will be part of an effort to stimulate sales in such places as the United Kingdom, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany and France.

MARKET PROBLEMS

Mr. Bonner spoke on marketing problems and procedures at a luncheon of delegates to the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association annual convention.

"Canadians have more uses for lumber than Europeans, he said.

"Our big problem in moving lumber into Europe is to show them how we use it here. It's a question of exciting their interest in a medium they haven't used extensively in 300 years."

B.C.'s agent general in London was working on plans for the tour which will be made up of builders, architects and town planners.

RUSSIA CONVINCED

"We have to take the necessary measures and spend the necessary money if we are going to maintain our way of life..." said Mr. Harkness.

'IRRESPONSIBLE'

Earlier, George Chatterton hit out at his opponents and a section of the press, which he said, had not been giving him a fair break.

He said that Liberal David Groos had been "irresponsible" in advocating a complete national health plan and not telling the people how much it would cost them in extra taxes.

Common Ground Found At Algerian Parley

EVIAN, France (Reuters)—France and Algerian insurgents have found common bargaining ground in peace talks aimed at ending the six and one-half year Algerian war, well-informed sources said Thursday.

The sources said the French and Algerian delegations have started negotiations over issues on which they can find something in common rather than big obstacles.

Negro Leader Shot As Marshals Leave

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—One of the Negro integration leaders, South's integration leaders, was shot by white youths in six Freedom Riders.

A passing car yesterday shortly after the government announced the withdrawal of 500 marshals from this racially-tense Alabama capital.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., head of Negro integration efforts in the south, immediately protested to President Kennedy that "a perpetual reign of terror still exists in Montgomery." King asked that the marshals not leave "at this crucial moment."

King telegraphed the president of the wounding of the Rev. Solomon Seay and the arrest of a new group of Freedom Riders at the bus station here.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The justice department announced last night that it would take part as a "friend of the court" in a suit challenging the constitutionality of Alabama's segregation laws.

Strike Support Means No Job Africans Told

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—The government threatened Thursday to fire civil servants who support a three-day "stay-at-home" strike scheduled to coincide with the proclamation of a South African republic in six days.

The warning was issued by Interior Minister Jan de Klerk as security police continued a three-week hunt for leaders of the anti-government strike, proposed for May 29-31.

But the country-wide hunt so far has failed to catch up with the leader of the strike campaign, 43-year-old Nelson Mandela of the National Action Council.

The elusive Mandela telephoned a Johannesburg newspaper Wednesday night to announce his organization's plans "to hit back hard" on the first day of the strike in retaliation against the sweeping police raids.

The council's plans were disclosed as both Negro nationalists and supporters of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd as high as 10,000.

Police toured Durban Thursday in loudspeaker trucks appealing to the people in English, Afrikaans and Zulu to ignore the stay-at-home strike call.

At the same time, the government tightened security measures that already have resulted in the biggest peacetime military call-up in the troubled nation's history.

Troops stood guard over the Modderfontein dynamite factory, the world's biggest explosives plant, about 10 miles from Johannesburg.

The troops were called out after reports warned of possible attempts to blow up railroad lines before the strike deadline.

Meanwhile, police continued their roundup of prominent white and Negro anti-government leaders.

The government has refused to disclose the number now under detention but informed sources say the figure may be as high as 10,000.

ERIC CHARMAN OF FAIRFIELD REALTY is holding another

OPEN HOUSE — 1575 ROCKLAND AVE. SATURDAY, MAY 27 — 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Actually I know the property well. Rumor has it that the eighteen-year-old family residence was designed by that eminent Architect, Sir Timothy Thistlethwaite. It is a curious house in that from the road it is somewhat reminiscent of the Rev. Trendinning's small Tudor vicarage, yet it contains a large Drawing Room, Dining Room, bright modern kitchen and a guest powder room. Approached by a fine staircase, the second floor contains four bedrooms and two bathrooms. There is a magnificent rumpus room with brick fireplace and a bar furnished with hot and cold water and a door leading to the patio. Adjacent to the rumpus room is a W.C. and washbasin, both of which are exquisitely encased in a knotty pine enclosure. The views are magnificent from all rooms. There is a double drive-in garage and oil hot water heating. Come and see this charming residence, so often admired by the passer-by. It is priced for immediate sale at the drastically reduced figure of $24,750.00. ($6500.00 Down).

P.S. Unable to get there myself—while I was watching the 330 race, my shooting stick collapsed from under me and I ruined my only decent pair of plu-fours. However, Miss Arantha Ogilthorpe will be there to serve you tea and hot gingerbread—the invasion of these tourists has somewhat depleted our crumpet supply!

Jekyll and Hyde

WHAT peculiar force takes over the conduct of certain politicians during the stress of an election, driving them from their normal pattern of behavior and duty to make outrageous statements, depend on fiction instead of fact, and reverse their earlier opinions without the slightest blush or excuse?

Three outstanding examples of this Jekyll and Hyde attitude were revealed to the public of Greater Victoria Wednesday evening by Provincial Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, the CCF member for Burnaby-Coquitlam, Erhart Regier; and national Liberal Party leader Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Gagliardi and Mr. Regier must jointly head the list for making the most vicious statements heard throughout the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection campaign.

Mr. Gagliardi publicly charged External Affairs Minister Howard Green with dereliction of duty in leaving the Geneva conference on Laos to take part in the local election contest, despite the fact that he must know that the Geneva meeting has been adjourned.

In similar vein Mr. Regier lashed out at the very party Mr. Gagliardi serves. Referring to the provincial Social Credit government, he said: "This is a horrible intrigue in B.C. The rackets in Chicago in the days of Al Capone were nothing in comparison."

In a different category altogether stands Mr. Pearson, who through shunning personal attacks, tends to suffer from short memory and mind-changing at frequent intervals.

Still on the anti-trade with China handwagon he built for his party immediately after the Conservative government had completed the wheat agreement with that country, Mr. Pearson is beginning to show signs of backtracking once again. He now hopes that it will prove successful for the country as a whole.

He did not linger at all on his earlier attack on the pact in which he saw great danger of arousing American anger, a welching of payments and an unsavory involvement with a Communist country.

No doubt his new view—confusing as it is to his followers—was brought about by Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton's gentle reminder of his (Mr. Pearson's) opinion on the subject of such trade in 1949.

Here are the Liberal leader's words then: "Nothing can be more important to Canada than building up trade with the Far East, including China. But one essential element in the development of trade is to establish some kind of contact with the government. So naturally the promotion of trade is part of the problem of our relationship with the Communist government in China and the two cannot be separated."

For Mr. Pearson's information, this most important move which he and his Liberal government of 1949 so heartily supported by lip service alone, has now become an accomplished fact under the present government which will result in Canada harvesting a great reward in money, employment and good will.

Training the Police

PRELIMINARY discussion of ways of standardizing and improving the training of Greater Victoria policemen has yielded interesting suggestions but has also disclosed some difficulties, particularly—as is usual in municipal matters—in the realm of finance. It is to be hoped that in coming weeks the police commissions of the area, in the same co-operative spirit as marks the daily work of their separate forces, will do their utmost to devise a satisfactory plan.

There is no implication that the policemen of Greater Victoria are untrained or poorly trained. The police chiefs agree, however, that there is room for improvement; that the individual training systems leave something to be desired.

Sending policemen to the schools in Vancouver and Regina would be too expensive and would deplete the forces. One suggested alternative is to seek to have the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, as the provincial police force, set up a school in Victoria.

This suggestion, however, is not likely to find favor with the provincial government. Providing a school in Victoria could only lead to justified demands for schools elsewhere in the province.

For its own force, the Victoria police department cannot afford to run a full-time school, but it does provide basic and advanced courses for a limited number of men at intervals, and until recently has admitted policemen from the other municipalities to them without charge.

It may well be that the four police commissions of Greater Victoria when they put their heads together will be able to clear the way to intermunicipal financing of expansion of the city's training program to include all Greater Victoria policemen. Spread over the whole area, the cost should not be so great as to overbalance the benefit.

He Disqualifies Himself

IN A RADIO interview, Mr. George Hahn, the Sacred candidate in the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection, said it is best that the elected member for this constituency should be of the same political flavor as the reigning provincial government. In the context of his remarks this meant that such member would be able to back the Bennett government against the federal government.

It is the core of confederation that federal and provincial governments have separate responsibilities and duties, each of them accounting to a parliament representing the electors who choose such parliaments.

A federal MP is thus charged with looking after the interests of his constituents as these are affected by the conduct of national affairs. He is their spokesman in the national as distinct from the provincial realm.

Apparently Mr. Hahn does not subscribe to this constitutional basis of governance. If elected he would not represent the electors of the federal riding of Esquimalt-Saanich but instead the Social Credit government of Mr. Bennett.

This attitude disqualifies him as a federal candidate.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling wax.

By TOM TAYLOR

A 61 YEAR OLD recluse who lives in a cottage in the Black Forest has lost her claim to be recognized as the Grand Duchess Anastasia, allegedly the surviving daughter of the Bolshevik slaughter of the Russian royal house in 1918.

A German court sat for three years deliberating her case, as others had before it. But it ruled that Frau Anderson was not of the blood royal. She could not prove her genealogy to its satisfaction.

It is the continuity of an broken lineage that counts in such circles.

Pedigrees on a lesser scale are often broken; documentarily at least. A pity this, for it may rob us of sharing in reflected glory.

We all have a family tree, naturally. None of us sprang into being separate from anyone else. We are part of a common vine.

Some individuals take a delight in harvesting the vineyard. A person will say, somewhat pompously perhaps: "My family goes back to 1715." Or it might, even, be 1632 or 1066.

As though in itself this was really something.

Actually it is not. Your own tree, dear reader, goes that far back, much farther in fact. All family trees go way back; right to Methuselah and beyond. If you like, right back to Adam.

But what the slightly puffed-up person means is that he can trace his genealogy to the date he cites. That is, he has a record of the begets and who is who in what order.

His family tree is documented, as the personal branch of Frau Anderson was not.

This is where much of the human world falls down. In the course of time they have been indifferent record keepers. Sometimes there are good reasons for a family to cut the old tree down and begin with a new sprig, but mostly, I suspect, it is laziness that has caused the documentary lapse.

How many modern families are ensuring that future scenes of their house will have documentary proof of their ancestors. I wonder.

One can correct the omission of one's begetters in this respect: to beget in time anyway. These are agencies that specialize in the art of human silviculture—and which can bring back to life some ancient oak full of worthy family branches.

Presumably they are worthy, for it cannot be that only the pedigrees of the proudful or the distinguished of a bygone age can be traced.

I dare say there is vanity at the root of many a genealogical tree but much deserving continuity as well. It is just as dutiful and proper, is it not, to know of one's ancestor 20 times removed as it is to be familiar with one's more immediate grandmother.

Except that some genealogical records are flaunted as evidence of superior status.

Actually some of these might bear very close scrutiny, but I dare say there is a kind of social elitism in having a tree nicely foliated with names, two or three of them clinging to each branch. And if the odd ancestor had a valet instead of himself being a valet then supposedly the tree is worth framing and hanging up on the wall.

I have a genealogy myself, apart from the one I have in common with everyone else and which is beyond sorting into shipshape order. Mine is not a tree so much as a bundle of twigs piled on top of each other, meaning a list of names that date backwards. But they need fertilizer to make them spring up and spread them selves in orthodox genealogical style, all nicely differentiated.

Somewhat I have a notion they will never flourish as they deserve. I should hand them to an expert who husbandry is lineage, but I fear I am as laggard as my progenitors.

Perhaps it is safer the way things are, however.

To Mary Queen the praise be given!

She sent the gentle sleep from Heaven.

My garments all were dank.

Sure I had drunken in my dreams.

Gossamer Blown Away

By CYRIL DUNN,
from Washington

AT this season of the year there are days when the whole atmosphere of Washington changes disagreeably. Some emanation—vast, invisible, noiseless and unheralded—comes up from the Gulf and overwhelms us. Suddenly the air is an uncomfortable burden, hot and damp. As our neighbor's daily help once said definitively: "It's not the heat; it's the humidity."

Something similar has happened to the political atmosphere. It is nothing like the deflation of hopes which seems to have occurred overseas. Recent events have not made the people of Washington lose faith in their young president; the ranks of Americans are not now in a state of confused dispersal. On the contrary, foreign criticism of Mr. Kennedy has evidently brought them into a closer and more determined order behind him. And some, self-defensively, have turned with sombre satisfaction to the old strategy of the mole and the beam.

A neat use of the "tu quoque" occurred recently. Hints that Mr. Kennedy might after all be willing to meet Mr. Khrushchev began to infiltrate social gossip here as the sun went down on a Sunday evening—an hour in the American calendar when the flow of information is by custom a mere trickle. The award-winning newscasters of television are at home with their loved ones, taking the day off. The radio still gives us the tidings, but somehow that rattle-gabble, interspersed with high-speed noise signals to foster a sense of urgency and drama, never seems convincing. So we telephoned the news desk of one of those agencies that never sleep and rarely lose their heads.

A competent girl reporter answered us and agreed that the story was true, though hedged around with qualifications. We mentioned hearing it said that the meeting with Mr. Khrushchev would most probably occur in a neutral European country and added, a bit playfully, that the only European neutral that we could think of off-hand was Switzerland.

"And Britain?" said the young lady, archly and with just the faintest touch of malice.

For, smarting as they are under foreign rebuke for having acted independently in Cuba, many Americans are at this moment eager to point out that there are more ways than one of being unilateral.

There is almost as much inclination here to accuse Britain of moving towards neutralism and of seeking a separate discharge from the cold war as there is in Britain a tendency to suppose that Mr. Kennedy wants to fight the Soviet Union single-handed.

It is commonly assumed that the bright-eyed youngsters now rallying behind Lord Russell in his sit-down demonstrations represent the true contemporary spirit of the British Isles. And nothing anyone has said about President Kennedy has done more to upset the Americans than the assertions of the elderly earl that there is little to choose between the president and the late Hitler.

Even so, there can be no doubt that the tone of Washington has changed, quietly, but positively, in the last few weeks. The extravagant songs of praise, welcoming the new Kennedy era, are muted now. What really seems to have stopped the Americans in their tracks is the discovery that their young leader's behavior is not predictable.

It has become tedious to debate the rights and wrongs of what happened in Cuba. But it was unexpected—and the same is true of other items less vitally important.

It is fair to say that Americans seem assiduously to have deprived themselves about Mr. Kennedy's intentions. True, in the late election campaign he identified himself with the policies of the Democratic Party as few presidential candidates have done in the past. But it is notorious in American politics that a president starts his term with a fairly clean slate. When Mr. Kennedy began formulating task forces to advise him on policy in all kinds of special areas, nobody was heard protesting that these matters had already been settled by the Democratic Party.

Nor does anyone seem to suppose that the party which gave Mr. Kennedy a program may now be relied upon to back him up in seeing it through.

If Mr. Kennedy were looking for excuses to act independently he could have little difficulty in finding them. But the president doesn't need excuses. He has always made it clear that he would reach his own decisions and take responsibility for them. The fact is also that he went into the White House with few predetermined ideas, partly because this is the way he works but mainly because he did not and could not know the data on which proper judgment might be based.

As a result, the new president took some time to shape his plans—more, in fact, than an eager public curiosity would allow him. No we all set about studying his methods, concluding from these what his course of action would be and clothed him from head to foot in policy. If some of these garments now turn out to have been sheerer than the fault is ours.

Mr. Kennedy was an enigma when he took office. If he seems less of one now, it is perhaps only because windy events have blown away some of the illusion with which we surrounded him. But it seems most unlikely that these same draughts have done anything to change his nature, which is that of an exceptionally gifted but still ordinary American. If from now on what he does should leave the foreign mind bewildered and surprised, then the sobering conclusion must be that we still do not understand ordinary Americans, even after generations of elaborate interpretation.

Soviet Agriculture

Economists Disagree

BY ISAAC DEUTSCHER
Third of Four Articles

AMONG the Soviet economists several schools of thought have formulated their ideas on agricultural policy, ideas which undoubtedly correspond to conflicting views held in government and party.

One extreme school, which seems to reflect official impatience with the troubles in agriculture, advocates the transformation of the kolkhozy into sovkhozy—that is the bringing of the whole of agriculture under state ownership and direct state control. The exponents of "stabilization" are against any further concessions to the collective farmers, especially against any further rise in agricultural prices. They point out that such a rise would be so costly that it would have to be made at the expense of the industrial workers' and futile for it would encourage the farmer to make further demands.

The government, it is said, is already paying the kolkhozy far higher prices than those it pays the sovkhozy. The state farmers' productivity is double that of the collective farmers; their costs of production are much lower; and their economic methods are altogether more rational.

The "pseudo-democracy" of the collective farm, under which the general assembly of members is entitled to elect the farm's management and to settle business affairs, makes no sense economically, according to this school of thought. The kolkhozy should be placed under government-appointed one-man management and—under a labor regime not different from that of any state-owned enterprise.

This would be a change far more radical than the idea of agrartowns once held and then abandoned by Khrushchev; and in a sense it would be an admission of the failure of collectivization. The economists who advocate this view have revealed a startling fact of which the outside world has hitherto been unaware: They say that in the last few years the state-owned farms have anyhow absorbed from 15 to 20 per cent of the collective farms, and one-fifth of the total agricultural land. This, the economists point out, indicates a long term trend towards the merger of these "two forms of Socialist economy in agriculture"; and they urge the government to promote this merger as consistent with the so-called transition from socialism to Communism.

According to all evidence, the Central Committee has refused to act on this advice. The provisioning of the towns depends too strongly on the collective farms for the government to risk upsetting them in so sweeping a manner. Khrushchev has done what he could to diminish this dependence. The state farm is the prevalent form of agriculture on the virgin lands brought under cultivation in recent years.

Even so, the government still gets the bulk of food supplies from the kolkhozy: 56 per cent of all grain, 64 per cent of meat, 70 per cent of dairy produce, 82 per cent of sugar beet, and 85 per cent of cotton. The state-owned farms supply nearly half the grain, but only a small fraction of the other provisions. Any amperous balance of the kolkhozy may expose the towns to dangerous food shortages. But the Central Committee is also refusing to act on the advice of the opposite, the pro-kolkhozy school of thought.

Economists of that school argue that the crucial reform which produced the agricultural upswing of 1953-54 was the increase in official prices for farm produce; and they urge a further rise as the only means to cope with the present difficulties. They point out that if the stimulus of the 1953-54 price increase has worn off, this is so because present prices, though much higher than in the Stalin era, are often still below costs of production. However, this proposal, too, was defeated at the Central Committee's January session. This is the crucial fact about the session, although no official report mentions it.

Disgusting Jargon

They Don't Know Why

By CASSANDRA

CERVANTES in a Preface to Don Quixote spoke of the need in writing "to explain your thoughts, and set them in the truest light, laboring as much as possible not to leave them dark or intricate, but clear and intelligible."

On the question of darkness and trust light I was reminded of this sturdy advice by the official statement issued on Monday night, a large chunk of Southeast England was plunged, without warning, into the biggest blackout since the Luftwaffe invaded our skies.

The statement said: "It appears to be due to sequence of tripping (cascading tripping) of protective circuits following an initial earth failure."

So that's why the telly went off and why we couldn't light the candles we hadn't got.

The dark and intricate man from the CEB in explanation extinguished his lantern and then went on:

"Certain transmission lines and generating sets were out of commission for normal summer overhaul, but planning of these outages had been done with regard to the security of the system."

Wonderful, wonderful, glorious, concealing verbiage that includes the birth of a new piece of disgusting jargon—"Outages."

"Outages" is the latest jargon: a new word for the angry father telling the delinquent daughter to go.

"Get outages of my house and never darken my door again!"

The final explanation why the bacon and eggs grew cool in the frying pan and why there was no light in the lavatory, was recorded in this ultimate and most hideous circumlocution of all.

"It therefore appears that investigations may show that the trouble was precipitated by coincident disturbances at more than one point. Only detailed investigations can give this information."

Translation: "We don't know why the lights went out."

Garden Party

Among the many functions which we will not be attending is "A Garden Party at the Northern Outfall."

This piece of Old Vienna is being thrown open to the press and public by the London County Council.

I suppose I must be getting old, but the attractions, "A coach tour of the works" and "Sewermen in sewer kit who will be there to describe working sewers and to answer questions," somehow fails to tempt.

The climax of this frolic occurs when "visitors will follow the course of the sewage from the time it enters the works to the time it is divided into sludge and pure effluent."

I must be losing my zeal for life.

The House of Lords, rather surprisingly, threw out the latest move to bring back flagging, in spite of the fact that they were backed by the powerful advocacy of the Lord Chief Justice of England.

The supporters of the lash, however, are not dismayed and a brand-new society is being formed which aims to enlist the support of 5,000 people for the return of corporal punishment.

By a stroke of unconscious genius—and I use the word stroke with some deliberation—they are calling themselves "The Anti-Violence League."

Too Quick an End

OUR dramatists of stage, screen and the electronics bring their villains to too sudden an end. Bang goes the gal in the hand of the hero, two minutes before the end of the show. And flat in the dust lies the villain.

Flat in the dust after hours, days, weeks, years of villainy. It is too easy an end to villainy. Villains should get hit in the foot and die of gangrene six months later, after a long, lingering illness.

As a matter of fact, that is the way most villains die in real life for several reasons. One reason is that heroes, being men of high character with little practice at pistol shooting owing to their work on the school board and taking up the collection at church are not very good shots. They usually hit villains in the foot, not in the midriff.

But villains usually get arrested by a policeman, without any shooting. The policeman walks up to them and says: "Hey, aren't we looking for you?"

And he takes them by the scruff of the neck and telephones for the wagon.

A villain usually has a long time to feel cheap, remembering all the people who must be laughing about him, caged there in an iron pen, or dying slowly of gangrene in the foot.

Park Rats

Mr. Arthur Levy, writing recently in your column, makes the statement that Beacon Hill Park is over-run with rats. In fairness to those responsible for maintaining the park it must be pointed out that the allegation is just not true. One of my inspectors has interviewed your correspondent and he has reported to me that the alleged sighting of eight rats in one day took place as long as a year or more ago.

A great deal of rodent control work has been done since that time with the result that areas which, like Beacon Hill Park, used to be heavily infested are now virtually rat-free. This satisfactory condition will continue if people who see rats or evidence of them will report the fact to this office. Rodent control service is free to residents of Victoria and Esquimalt and is carried out safely, promptly and effectively by qualified personnel.

Firm Hand

An old writer once said, "A babe in the house is a well spring of pleasure." He could hardly have written that today. The books of advice to parents, much of it nonsense, and the warnings of psychologists have for many people made raising a family an anxious and nerve-racking business. One so-called adviser to whom a distraught mother wrote about a child of three who was aggressive and destructive told her to let him have something he could hand about "or make a noise" such as a drum or a trumpet. It makes those of us who had a commonsense upbringing marvel at the state of dependence and helplessness into which so many parents have fallen.

Moral suasion and kidglove handling have got us nowhere. It needs the hand of discipline and firmness and no child however young is any the worse of being made to mind.

Blanshard Better

We are pleased with your stand in your editorial on the Blanshard Street extension. How short are the memories of the civic fathers in this city. Do they not remember the disapproval of the P.T.A. and the disadvantages that were pointed out of the Quadra Street-Pat Bay highway that was talked about in the city hall and provincial parliament buildings during Premier Boss Johnson's term of office in the years 1948 and 1949. Those four schools, three public, one private, are still on Quadra Street. Premier Johnson and his cabinet saw those disadvantages, and resorted to the present Douglas Street route. Now we have the Island Highway also resorted to the Douglas Street entrance, as there was no other way into the city.

There is only one alternative now, and that is Blanshard Street, and as reported in your paper of this date Blanshard Street would be the cheapest in the long run, by some $700,000. And is closer to the main business section of the city such as Douglas Street and the 700 block on Yates Street and the large parkade at the Hudson's Bay Store.

Blind 'Dean' Dies at 90

VANCOUVER (C.P.)—Funeral services were held Wednesday for John Munro, known to the blind people of B.C. as the "dean of counsellors." He died at the age of 90 last week, ending 33 years in various posts with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Mr. Munro, an electrical engineer, retired from the B.C. Rudeness of MLAs Under Fire At Outdoor Rally

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

Depotment and rudeness of members of the legislature, conducting the business of the people in the legislative assembly, came under sharp attack at the meeting of the Affiliated Fish and Game Clubs of Vancouver Island in Nanaimo Wednesday.

Duncan fish and game delegate Mickey Sharpe said he attended the legislature to hear the estimates of Recreation Minister Earl Westwood discussed and was "disgusted by the foul and uncouth remarks from backbenchers who were half asleep."

SEVEN TIMES

"There was a man being very intelligent and very fair a man who obviously had a genuine interest in conservation. He asked Mr. Westwood a question seven times and never did get an answer," Mr. Sharpe complained.

"This member, who was apparently referring to Cranbrook CCFer Leo Nimsicki got nowhere. Because he was CCF he got nowhere."

"He got nothing but desk thumping, members turning their backs, a member stealing candy from another member's desk. If an individual man asks a question, isn't he entitled to an answer to that question?" Mr. Sharpe asked. Mr. Sharpe was in the Speaker's Gallery the night Premier Bennett abruptly adjourned the sitting when questioning got hot, and also another day when Mr. Westwood's estimates continued.

KEEP INFORMED

Mr. Sharpe was speaking to a suggestion by fish and game director Ted Baraby that clubs invite their MLAs to attend fish and game meetings so as to keep them informed of the problems.

"If we got our Cowichan-Newcastle member to attend our meetings he (CCF leader Robert Strachan) would get the same kind of treatment as this other man got," Mr. Sharpe argued.

"If you get the members educated, maybe they will know what is going on. Maybe some of the members can get educated and would listen."

Germany Seen Rising Again as Sea Power

LONDON (AP)—West Germany was seen re-emerging today as a major European sea power bidding for a more dominating role in NATO. This was read into the allies' decision Wednesday to let the Germans double the tonnage of their fledgling navy and to build super-destroyers armed with missiles.

Some sources predicted that Germany will not be satisfied with that—it will step up pressure to be allowed to increase its submarine fleet too.

The new 6,000-ton guided missile destroyers Germany now can build will put the country into the front rank of European naval power.

These craft are considered by naval experts to be second only to the aircraft carrier as the most effect striking ships in the modern navy.

The massive arms deal in the development of Britain's spectacular new Hawker P-1127 vertical takeoff fighter, news of the deal, expected to bring Britain probably hundreds of millions of pounds, drew little immediate press reaction here.

The Daily Express, however, claimed the deal was the price the Germans had agreed to pay to keep British troops on German soil.

U.K. Blames Russia For Laos Stalemate

Rebel Threat Puts 1,800 To Flight

LUANDA, Angola (Reuters)—Fifty armed rebels have forced 1,800 Negroes to flee their homes in the Portuguese territory of Cabinda, north of Angola, according to reports reaching here Thursday.

Cabinda, on the West African coast, is separated from northern Angola by about five miles of The Congo River delta belonging to The Congo.

Refugees reaching Belize, near The Congo republic, said villagers were ordered to leave under threat of "death or terrible mutilations."

One Negro reached a frontier post with both his ears cut off.

GENEVA (UPI)—British spokesmen accused Russia last night of blocking the Geneva conference on Laos by refusing to send vital instructions to the International Control Commission that is investigating the cease-fire in Laos.

PINAS FREUDIGER ... opiates alleged

Witness Accused

Screaming Jews Interrupt Trial

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—Two Hungarian Jews threw the Adolf Eichmann trial into an uproar yesterday when one screamed "beast of prey, murderer!" at the defendant and the second accused a tearful witness of saving his own family at the expense of others.

The trial was suspended for half an hour while Israeli police carried the two men, kicking and screaming, from the courtroom. It was the second time the trial has been interrupted by hysterical spectators.

The demonstration occurred while Pinas Freudiger, former leader of the Budapest orthodox Jewish community, was telling the court about the deportations of Hungarian Jews on Eichmann's orders to extermination camps in the east.

The first man to interrupt the court was Abraham Kasirer, only survivor of a Hungarian family of 70. He rose to his feet and screamed "beast of prey" and "murderer" at the impassive Eichmann.

Seconds later a second man, Sandor Szilagyi, rose to his feet and screamed at the witness in Hebrew mixed with Hungarian: "You injected us with opiates, you cheated us, you didn't inform us about the camps. You saved your own families. Why didn't you save ours?"

The demonstrations reflected bitterness among Hungarian Jews in Israel, some of whom charge that their leaders sold them out to the extermination squads.

Earlier in the trial a man became hysterical in the public gallery and interrupted the court with shouts of "blood-hound" at Eichmann. He, too, was removed from the court but was allowed to return when he calmed down.

Freudiger, sometimes in tears, identified Eichmann as a jack-booted, revolver-packing bellowing Nazi boss who drove hundreds of thousands of Hungarian Jews to the gas chamber.

Poetry, Too

'Baraka' Lacking In Bible

NEW YORK (AP)—Modern poetry needs more baraka, says a poetry professor from England. In fact, practically everything needs more baraka, it would appear.

But baraka seemingly isn't easy to come by—and even less easily defined.

Professor Robert Graves of Oxford University said a house can have baraka. Even an old dented cooking pot.

Addressing the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the professor explained that baraka is an Islamic word which takes on varying meanings with varying applications. It can mean "inspiration" or "the quality of life."

"It is of the utmost importance in poems, stories, paintings, sculptures and music," said the professor, hastening to add he finds little in modern poetry.

And, he said, the newest translation of the Bible has been "carefully purged of all baraka."

"The old one was holier. If I had to swear on oath on this book, I wouldn't feel bound to tell the truth."

Cuban Swap Remains In Doubt

MIAMI (UPI)—Ten paroled Cuban invaders, scheduled to return to Havana today, lacked a firm commitment yesterday on the tractors for prisoners exchange plan.

The proposed barter of 1,200 captured Cuban prisoners for 500 American tractors and bulldozers remained in doubt.

Despite increasing Congressional criticism, a privately-backed campaign continued—with President Kennedy's personal support—to raise an estimated $15,000,000 to pay for the equipment Premier Fidel Castro is demanding as "indemnification" for last month's abortive invasion.

CUT THREATENED

"It had been made clear to the Germans that unless they paid back most of the British taxpayers' £65,000,000 a year bill for keeping an army in Germany these forces would be severely cut," said The Express.

U.S. Jets Set New Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Three U.S. Navy jet fighter planes set an unofficial coast-to-coast record here Wednesday. The fastest of the three made it in two hours and 47 minutes.

The transcontinental marks were set by F-4H-1 Phantoms, among five taking part in the 20th renewal of the Bendix Trophy races. They landed within a space of 15 minutes.

Too Near Heaven for Comfort

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP)—William Barnes, a young Anglican student minister, confessed sheepishly from a hospital bed Thursday that he and his fiancée spent Monday night a little too close to heaven for comfort.

In the swaying chair of a shut-down ski lift part way down a mountain, Barnes and Carol Black of West Hill, Ont., went on a hike up Blue Mountain to sketch the Georgian peaks near here. On the way down they came across the lift, in operation but with a sign saying not to board it unattended. They did, about 5:15 p.m. Monday. "Wouldn't it be funny if it stopped," said Miss Black. Well, it did and it wasn't. They jolted to a halt 150 feet from the top and a mile from the bottom, 20 feet above the ground.

few hymns and read from a volume of Robert W. Service until the light failed. At 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Barnes bailed out, injuring his back in the plunge. He crawled for some distance until able to walk. He located two men who found the lift attendant.

Chances 'Unlimited' For University Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—Almost unlimited opportunities exist for university-trained men and women although Canada has its most serious unemployment in 30 years, Dean Gordon Shrum told graduating students at the University of British Columbia yesterday.

University-trained men and women are needed in Canada as teachers, engineers, scientists, economists, social workers and public administrators, he said.

GROWING DEMAND

In addition, there was an ever-increasing demand in the newly-developing nations for university-trained men and women to assist with health, agricultural and industrial projects which will raise their standard of living and help preserve their newly-acquired freedom.

But graduates must not be insensitive to the needs of the less fortunate individuals.

USE TRAINING

"You will want to use your intelligence and your training to help provide fuller employment opportunities for all Canadians," Dr. Shrum said.

Dr. Shrum, dean of graduate studies and head of the physics department at the university here, was addressing the first of two ceremonies at the spring congregation.

HONORARY DEGREE

Following his address he received an honorary degree along with dean Earle D. MacPhee, former head of the faculty of commerce and business administration and now assistant to the president, and Paul Cooper, Vancouver businessman and former chairman of the UBC development fund. About half of the university's 1,400 graduating students received degrees at yesterday's ceremonies, among them the last 23 members of the Sopron forestry faculty which came to UBC following the Hungarian uprising in 1956.

ANOTHER CONGREGATION

Another congregation will be held Friday for the remaining students. Sir Oliver Franks, president of Lloyd's Bank and former British ambassador to Washington, will be the speaker.

Dr. Shrum said North America must produce more scientists, engineers and technologists to preserve and improve its living standards and to make its contribution toward improvement of prosperity and well-being of under-developed countries.

Canadians Win Award For Noise Abatement

OTTAWA (UPI)—The National Research Council has won a U.S. award for its work in eliminating unnecessary noise.

The 1960 award of the National Noise Abatement Council of the U.S. recognized three achievements of the NRC's applied physics division: development of special ear protectors, a basic method for controlling the noise of paper machine rolls in pulp mills, and research in the fundamental principles of acoustics.

Director F. R. Paxton said the association would buy 10 small vans and lease them to drivers for $1 a year. The drivers, chosen for their mechanical ability and courtesy, would receive the cost of each call as an income. The initial vans will service Greater Vancouver area. # Liberal Folly Slump Cause —Chatterton

Canada's recession and unemployment have grown from seeds of neglect sown by the one-time Liberal government, Reeve George Chatterton said yesterday.

Kill by Gas If We Must Says Winch

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harold Winch, member of parliament for Vancouver East, said Thursday the gas chamber should be substituted for hanging if capital punishment is to be kept in Canada.

He said in an interview gas is cheaper and cleaner than either hanging or electrocution.

Here on a brief visit to his constituency, he said he opposed capital punishment but supported a bill now before parliament.

"For 10 years after the Second World War the Liberal government failed to realize the war-torn European countries and Japan were rapidly re-establishing their industry and were underselling Canada on the world market," he said.

SAT BACK

"The Liberals sat back in their easy chairs and waited for the orders to roll in. And they did for a while, until the buyer's market changed to a seller's market."

Reeve Chatterton said this was the situation in 1957 when the Liberal government was swept out of power by the Conservatives.

NOW FIND

"We now find the Liberals have the audacity to admit that unemployment is caused because Canada lost its overseas markets, but they claim this happened immediately they lost power."

"What actually happened after they lost power is simple — in the past four years our overseas sales have stopped decreasing year after year and now are up 17 per cent. And our imports have been cut 3 per cent."

DON'T INCLUDE

"And these figures don't include the $425,000,000 sale of grain to China just recently."

"It took the Liberals 10 years to wreck Canada's economy. They couldn't have done more damage if they had been trying to sabotage our country."

Margarine Sale Nears In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec legislature Thursday gave second reading approval in principle to a bill which in effect, will permit the legal sale of margarine and other butter substitutes in the province for the first time.

The bill provides strict regulations as to coloring used. Instruments known as tintometers will be used to determine that the substitutes contain less than 1.6 "degrees" of yellow or yellow and red combined.

Interior Clubs 'Led Down Garden Path'

By ALEC MERRIMAN

A charge that delegates from B.C. interior fish and game clubs were "led down the garden path" when they voted in favor of a saltwater fishing licence at the recent fish and game federation convention in Penticton, was levelled Wednesday night in Nanaimo by Alex Norman of the Qualicum Fish and Game Club.

"It was hard to get across to the people of the interior zone should be able to appear that we also pay a freshwater on the convention agenda,"

Norman told delegates to the Affiliated Fish and Game Clubs of Vancouver Island. He charged the federation had no right to give its stamp of approval to a resolution and that federal fisheries director Rod Houson had misguidedly the convention when he had said the licence was only wanted to get statistics.

"I could then be free," argued Norman.

"There must be a weakness when a resolution already turned down by this (VII) to the people of the interior zone should be able to appear that we also pay a freshwater on the convention agenda,"

Norman told delegates to the Affiliated Fish and Game Clubs of Vancouver Island. He charged the federation had no right to give its stamp of approval to a resolution and that federal fisheries director Rod Houson had misguidedly the convention when he had said the licence was only wanted to get statistics.

"I could then be free," argued Norman.

"There must be a weakness when a resolution already turned down by this (VII) to the people of the interior zone should be able to appear that we also pay a freshwater on the convention agenda," coho, steelhead and spring management must go along with any introduction of a saltwater licence.

"That is a very important rider. We want a full-scale crash program on these species," she said. "We didn't want to pay a saltwater licence, but we felt we would never have a voice in fish management unless we paid some thing," she said. "We also felt saltwater licences will be here one day and let us get a foot in the door."

NOT FOR IT

"I agree we want some work done, but are we sure we are going to get some work and not extra policing? Until commercial fishermen pay a fare share, more than $1 a year, we are not for it," said Gough.

"Commercial fishermen are getting it handed on a platter... 35 per cent of their new boats are now paid for," Gough added.

The Ladysmith club presented a notice of motion asking that if a saltwater licence is instituted the tax on all sports tackle and equipment used in saltwater fishing be abolished, as it is for commercial fishermen.

TAX FREE

"This group (commercial fishermen) get everything tax free. If we are going to pay a licence why shouldn't we get our equipment tax free, too," asked the Ladysmith delegate.

Barsby took exception to charges that interior delegates shouldn't have been allowed to vote on the saltwater licence proposals.

"What do we know about big game and ranching problems of the interior, yet we vote on them?" he asked.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Vic Humphries has taken an early lead, with a 19.12-pounder, in Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's revamped season-long 200-rung ladder derby.

The new ladder competition which started at the weekend got off to a slow start, probably because people don't yet realize they can weigh as many fish as they want for their $1 ladder ticket, or because the more persistent anglers feel they don't want to weigh in a smallish fish and hurt their pride.

Sid Upton held second place on Wednesday with a 19.4-pounder and others on the ladder included R. P. Hayward with 10.15, Win Rose with 10.7, G. Miners with 10.5, K. Wringe with 9.4, A. Rosin with 8.15, E. Cadillac with 8.1 and B. Pilling with 5.13.

Fun of this year's competition is to see how long you can stay on the ladder.

The time has come when there is a pot pourri of fishing available on the Island. Salmon fishing is getting pretty good from one end to the other and trout and bass fishing is at its height.

If you get knocked off, all you have to do is go out again after a bigger fish.

Saanich Inlet fishing has been fair with a number of heavyweights weighed in from the Goldstream end and almost all boats anywhere in the inlet getting some blues or jack-springs. Alf Lohr got a 19.10 spring at Goldstream Island over the holiday weekend and Al Wright a 19.4-pounder at Misery Bay.

Jim Gilbert says the fish are down deep and fishing has been best in the evening. Mervyn Campbell is first to click at Cole Bay with five, up to six pounds. There have been lots of jack-springs and blues from Quarry Bay, Shephard Point, McKenzie Bay and Boulder block of the Inlet.

Fishermen can mix it up a little, trying out a little of each.

This is the weekend to go after that King Fisherman coho crest in mid-Island waters. Mike Gorkic reports L'ec Kennedy and another guide have brought in two coho at the five-pound mark, but that is the only report of the blues reaching that size yet.

Al Wilson says there are blues aplenty at Qualicum with a Tom Mack spoon, Strip-Trapper, doggers and four ounces of weight doing the trick. Pitt Clayton says he has never seen the blueback fishing better, with biggest recorded so far 4.12 pounds and a promise of some five-pounders almost any day.

Eve Lumb says there has been some good-sized springs off Qualicum Bay, but not yet any sign of the five-pound coho. Blues are not at Deep Bay.

George Bates said the first springs of the year from his resort was caught last week.

Portler Pass blueback fishing has been good. When it hasn't been too windy, with a No. 4 Tom Mack, six ounces and a flasher doing the trick.

Oce Burgess has been having good luck off Chemalvus. The big springs are off Oak Bay around Discovery and Chatham, but you practically have to drag bottom to get them. They are not too hungry and are full of needlefish. Bert White and Colin Corbett got 17-pounders Wednesday and Gerry Lauder and Stonewall Jackson landed into a couple of nice ones. Large Strip-Trapper or Minnow-Trapper have been producing well. Percy Brown says the big springs are arriving in Becher Bay. H. L. Green got a 22.8-pounder and several others have been weighed in between 15 and 20 pounds.

Small-mouthed bass are now being taken from Quennell Lake, St. Mary Lake, Prospect and Beaver-Elk Lakes and trout fishing is pretty good everywhere. The run of rainbow at the top end of the Little Qualicum hadn't appeared on Wednesday, but were expected any day.

Wind spoiled weekend fishing for many. Cy Wightman got blown off Sproat Lake after getting two rainbows, went to Upper Campbell and got nine, biggest 3.2 pounds, before getting blown off there. Tom Lumsden got 22 at Lower Campbell.

Joe Beattie, Curly Martin and Fred Eagle got 48 in Buttle Lake over the weekend, none very big. Commodore John Dean and Capt. Jim Ross got 22, some a pretty good size, near the mouth of the Elk River at Upper Campbell. Jack Parker and John Gleaser got 20 in the same waters.

The gates have gone up at Nanaimo Lakes and Elsie Lake because of fire hazard and admittance to Grant Lake is being barred by a guard with a dog.

The fire season is here and campers are warned they must get a campfire permit from the fish and game office or forestry stations before they light campfires. The time has also come when you must be sure to use the ashtray in the car and not to throw cigarettes, cigars or matches out of the car.

Garden Notes

Coping with Cannas

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The first time I tried my hand at growing cannas, I horsed things up to a fare-yewell.

A kindly neighbor gave me a box of surplus roots from his garden and told me how to plant them, but in my ignorance, I lost the whole works through trying to winter them outdoors. In that one season, though, I fell hard for these exotic plants with their lush, tropical foliage and their brilliant yellow and scarlet flowers.

The seeds of the canna are very hard black pellets, and for this reason an old-fashioned name for the plant is Indian Shot. It is quite possible to grow cannas from seed, chipping a hole in the hard skin to let the moisture in, as you do with lupins and morning glories, but it takes at least three years before the plants are big enough to bloom.

A more practicable way for impatient gardeners is to buy or beg a few tubers and grow them on, dividing them every year until you have a good collection, just as you would dahlias. In fact, the whole culture of cannas is very similar to that of dahlias.

The tubers or fleshy rootstocks are very vigorous and may be divided in spring before they start sprouting. If you have no canna roots, they can be bought at any garden supply shop and some dealers even have started plants in pots, all ready to set out. It requires only a small piece of root to make a good plant, as long as it has a crown and a few rootlets attached.

Cannas are dirty feeders and like a lot of rich fare in their planting site. They are particularly fond of mellow old manure dug into a sandy loam soil, with perhaps a small proportion of rotted oak leaves added.

As I found out to my sorrow, the slightest frost is fatal to these plants so it doesn't pay to plant them out too soon. Late May or early June is plenty early enough and in the fall the plants are lifted the same time as the dahlias, taking with them whatever soil clings to the roots, and stored in a cool but frostproof place through the winter.

A formal bed in the lawn filled with the new dwarf cannas looks as ritzy as all-get-out and will bloom from late June well into September. If you haven't room for a whole bed of them, try using single specimens as dot plants or accents in among your regular bedding plants or grow them in ornamental urns on each side of the front steps.

The leaves are very large and leathery, like those of a banana tree. Some varieties are a good dark green; others have leaves enlivened with reddish, purplish or bronzy tints, and the foliage alone is striking enough to justify the use of cannas in the ornamental bedding scheme. The individual flowers are rather like those of the gladiolus but, instead of being spaced out along the length of the spike, they are bunched in a huge cluster, making a flower of startling beauty.

Some of the standard varieties are King Humbert, with orange-scarlet flowers and bronze foliage; Yellow King Humbert, yellow flowers speckled red with dark green foliage; City of Portland, salmon pink; and The President, a five-foot giant with bright scarlet flowers. Prices run around 35 cents a root, more for started plants.

A new race of dwarf cannas in pastel shades has been developed by Pfitzer of Germany, available in old gold, peach, rose and lemon, each one named for an opera, as Carmen, Il Trovatore, La Traviata. These are not in general circulation yet but can be obtained from specialist growers.

Critic at Large

Theatre 'Pusher' Confesses

David Merrick, the closest thing to a theatrical monopoly since the Shubert brothers overturned Klaw and Erlanger, talks about the sorry state of the theatre with vastly more confidence and good nature than anyone else—as befits a man who has five shows running in New York and two on tour, most of them selling tickets in sizeable quantities.

"The state of the theatre is very low at this point but I have hope. Unfortunately, my predecessors in the theatre over the last 50 years didn't spend enough time developing good playwrights," he said over luncheon the other day. "I've found it terribly barren here so I go elsewhere to find good playwrights. I found an American playwright in England—J. P. Donleavy who wrote 'The Ginger Man' and 'Fairytale of New York', both of which I've scheduled for the near future.

"England gives young playwrights a chance to try out. There are theatre workshops, repertory theatres. Off-Broadway isn't the same thing. I don't know why the critics are so lenient down there. Some of these things cost $5. Off-Broadway hasn't produced much—a few actors. I call it Vanity Theatre—because most of the shows are produced by relatives or a boy friend of an actress."

I said that I thought the theatre-going public was being pushed into seeing a lot of shows they didn't much enjoy, much of it by Merrick's advertising which is devilishly shrewd and ubiquitous.

"I do it on all my shows," Merrick agreed amiably, "pushed people into all of them but I pushed them into good things, too. I agreed with you about Suzie Wong, but not about any of the others. If they can sell washing machines and all that muck on Madison Avenue with advertising, I thought I could do the same for the theatre. And I did. I was able to push people into 'The Entertainer' and 'Look Back in Anger' which are not all that commercial. And the people enjoyed them.

"The sad thing is that good notices don't always provide an audience, not after the first few weeks. You have to advertise. I advertise across the country. Musicals can afford it. 'Taste of Honey' I can't afford to advertise. When out-of-towners come in, maybe they've never heard of it."

Merrick pointed out that there were many heartening aspects to the theatrical situation, notably road business, which is excellent. All the theatres are booked in New York until after Christmas. The road is all booked. "The theatres out of town are even larger than here and the prices out of town are higher than they've ever been."

I asked him if he had any interest in any other kind of show business—television or pictures, for example. "I've had offers from both but I'm lucky enough to like what I do now. Besides, it's rougher here."

Merrick thinks ticket prices have about reached the peak the public will pay. "Labor unions want more and they should get more. Labor wanted a pension last year. And why not? Every other industry has pensions. If the five per cent tax is repealed, we'd split it among the theatre unions." Eventually, Merrick feels something should be done about playwright royalties, which he thinks are too high for new playwrights. "Why should Shelagh Delaney get the same royalties on her first play as Tennessee Williams?"

Loretta Back to Movies

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—With the Loretta Young show departing the video scene at the end of this season—though you will see reruns of the present show—Loretta, ageless beauty of Hollywood, is planning to make her first full-length movie in I can't remember how many years. Not in Hollywood, but in Europe where the producers have longer memories for the big-time stars. Loretta has been accused of using a camera filter to get that youthful look on her TV show. I don't know about that, but she looks as good in real life!

After seeing "Return to Peyton Place," with Carol Lynley as Allison instead of Diane Varsi, I wondered if Diane regretted her decision to forsake filmhood. A friend of mine saw her recently in San Francisco, and reports her appearance is more beatnik than any beatnik he ever saw. So, he was quite surprised when she took him to the airport in a 1961 Cadillac. Her grandfather, she explained, Grandpa is rich, and Diane is his favorite grandchild. P.S.—She will not return to moviemaking.

Richard Beyhmer is heartbroken because 20th-Fox asked too much from Columbia, who wanted him for "Five Finger Exercise." Richard, first seen in "Diary of Anne Frank," is very good. I am told, in the lead with Natalie Wood, in "West Side Story." John Cassavetes, a good actor, was asked, "why did you give up acting for directing?" "It gave me up," replied Honest John. "Also," he added, "I'm more relaxed as a director. The director of "Shadows" is now directing "Too Late Blues" with Bobby Darin and Stella Stevens.

An anonymous letter writer asks me: Do I know that Joan Crawford is a grandmother? And goes on to report that her son Christopher is the father of a daughter born Feb. 12, 1961. If he is—and I'm inclined to disbelieve anonymous letter writers—it's certain that Joan knows nothing of her grandparenthood. She has been out of touch with the boy she adopted some 18 years ago.

Snow Survey

Long B.C. Hot Spell Could Bring Floods

A snow survey bulletin prepared by the water rights branch says a long spell of hot weather 20-14 produce floods on some of B.C.'s major rivers.

Cool temperatures and heavy precipitation were general on Interior watersheds earlier this month and little snow melted above 5,000 feet elevation. Harry Hunter, meteorologist with the branch, said the odds are against severe flooding, however.

"Mother Nature seems to take good care of us and as a result there have been only two serious flood seasons in B.C. in 50 years," he said.

Snowpacks are above average on the Columbia River watershed and in some areas the water content is the highest in 12 years. Similar conditions have been found in the watershed of the Kootenay River.

'Absurd Promises'

Socialist Lumps New Party, Reds

Socialist party candidate Don Poirier said last night the New Party "perverts" the peddling counterfeits of socialism through 30 years of "absurd promises."

The Esquimalt-Saanich by-election candidate, speaking in Marigold Hall, lumped the New Party with the Communists as "political opportunists" who have consistently aligned themselves with "petty politicians who sacrifice principles for success."

"Small wonder the Communist party, which supports state-capitalist Russia, is back in the New Party," he said. "They have numbered their adherents by the thousands, and have educated them not at all."

In conflict with the "pseudo-socialists" for 30 years, the Socialist Party of Canada is "sacrificing immediate successes in favor of sound principles."

Mr. Poirier said he was confident the workers of the ridings will not go on "perpetuating the present order indefinitely."

Bill Bryant, chief mechanic, admires Saanich fire department's new ambulance.

New $13,000 Saanich Ambulance Will Go Into Service Monday

The latest thing in ambulances, just acquired by Saanich fire department, was shown to Greater Victorians for the first time in the parade Monday—just one day after its arrival from the factory.

Next Monday the new $13,000 vehicle will go into service.

The big Cadillac, with power steering and brakes and every other mechanical feature designed to ensure quick response, can carry four stretcher cases at a time.

Installed aboard will be a radio receiver and transmitter that can operate on both police and fire department wavelengths. There will also be a tone control similar to those in all other Saanich fire department vehicles, whereby the central operator can activate the siren to call drivers while they are away from the ambulance.

Chief Joseph Law, who drove the ambulance himself to its new home from Piqua, Ohio, said the new ambulance is capable of handling all types of emergencies, such as heart cases, traffic accidents, drownings, or any case where breathing is impaired or where speed is essential to save life.

"Other cases will be directed to commercial ambulances or, if handled by our vehicle, may result in a fee being levied against the patient."

Eichmann and Hiroshima

What Difference?

Adolf Eichmann's mass extermination of Jews and the devastation of Hiroshima and Nagasaki by atomic bombs were compared last night by Maj. Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former adjutant-general of the Canadian Army.

Referring to Allied air raids on German cities and the atomic attacks on the Japanese cities, Gen. Macklin commented:

"Without moralizing about it, I leave you to wonder what difference there is between this form of mass extermination and that practised by the Nazis on the Jews."

OAK BAY

He was addressing a meeting in Oak Bay Junior High School, sponsored by the Current Affairs Council of Greater Victoria. Some 150 persons attended the meeting.

Well-known as a trenchant critic of Canada's defence policies over the years, Gen. Macklin ridiculed Canada's three services, NATO and NORAD.

In a speech lasting more than an hour, some of his sharpest observations stood out:

RADLY IGNORANT

"Most of Canadians are sadly ignorant of matters of defence, or else they are just indifferent. As for Canadian politicians, they shy away from objective, critical, intelligent discussions of the subject."

"On the one hand, our RCAF is clinging to obsolete forms of aircraft with an amazing, obstinate tenacity, exceeding anything formerly displayed by cavalrymen clinging to their horses. And on the other hand there is the strange spectacle of airmen scrambling to get down out of the sky to tend missiles in holes in the ground."

"The system loosely called 'North American Defences' is misnamed. NORAD is not trying to defend American cities, or still less, Canadian cities, in any direct sense. The system is primarily for the warning and protection of the air bases."

COASTLY SHIPS

"The navy is rearmed with magnificent and costly ships and is technically highly efficient. But what is it supposed to be doing? It has no Canadian ships to convoy and its role has been surreptitiously changed from convoy to the hunting of submarines armed with nuclear missiles."

"The army is not even approximately ready for war and months of furious effort would be needed to ready it."

Scandal Study Called

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Hugh Griggs of Mimico Thursday summoned two town councillors home from a trip to Seattle for an emergency council meeting to investigate alleged building scandals.

Mayor Griggs wired James Ferrie and Murray Smith, at a convention in Seattle, to return.

The matter came to a head recently when the Mimico Ratepayers' Association claimed more than 1,000 infractions of the building bylaw have occurred in the last few years.

Shipyard Strike Settled

HALIFAX (UPI) — The 63-day-old strike of some 1,300 Halifax shipyard employees has been settled.

Details of the contract were withheld until a meeting of union members during the weekend, but it was learned that the settlement included an 18-cent-an-hour increase over a three-year period, and a $42 cash settlement.

Work is scheduled to resume at the shipyards Monday.

'Water Trotter' Ready

Wayne Wilson, 60, admires his "Water Trotter." It is a plastic ball which he propels and steers by "walking" inside. The apparatus is loaded on a trailer at York, Pa., ready for a trip to the Grand Canyon. Wilson hopes to be the first man to "walk" the Colorado River rapids.

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia yesterday blamed government, industry, the financial organizations and the labor force for "hobbling our recovery from recession by failing to work in harmony."

In a speech to the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association here, which was released to the press in advance of delivery, Mr. Bennett said:

ALL OF US
"Unemployment in the midst of abundance is more than a problem; it is a sin on the part of all of us who accept the responsibility of leadership in both the private and public sectors of our life."

Mr. Bennett suggested that Canada's national policy should be to pay public debts, balance accounts, build a surplus during the good times so that "we may sensibly spend it on development projects during periods when the economy needs government leadership to give it new momentum."

PAID DEBT
The B.C. premier used his own province as an example of this policy.

"During the last nine years we have paid our public debt and balanced our budgets, and where we have, despite the recession, been able to put in force this year the largest budget in our history through the expenditure of a portion of our accumulated surplus."

He said by doing this, B.C. has been able to alleviate greatly the seasonal unemployment which has always been one of its problems.

JOB PROJECTS

Mr. Bennett urged new job-producing projects of expansion and development during recession periods rather than a "clamp-down on expansion and a restriction both on the availability of money and on its availability at a satisfactory interest rate."

He said businessmen here must be aware that Canada is their best market place.

ONE FACT

"I would point out one obvious fact," said Mr. Bennett, "the prime market for the goods and services we produce is still the 18,000,000 people of Canada. Unless we keep our people at work, unless we maintain and increase their private purchasing power, our goods and services will go begging in the market place; tourist balance with the United States and said the solution He called for an equalization of the unfavorable trade and tariffs."

Liberals Name Campaign Chief

Appointment of Joseph O'Sullivan, a Winnipeg lawyer, as the Liberal party's federal campaign manager in Manitoba was confirmed here yesterday by Lester Pearson. The national Liberal leader, who is here to campaign in the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection, said Mr. O'Sullivan will report direct to the president of the Federal Liberal Association.

De Gaulle Talks For Ben-Gurion

PARIS (UPI)—Government sources said today that Israel Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, now visiting Canada, will meet here with President Charles de Gaulle June 6.

Professions on Too Lofty Pedestal, Democratize Education, Chant Urges

VANCOUVER (CP)—In-strengthen Canada's education system, a noted British Columbia educationist said more varied post-high school training program and full recognition of the social equality of a wide variety of occupations is necessary to an educational system that will enable young people to education system, made his remarks before the dinner of the UBC Alumni Association those who go here or go here.

He emphasized that universal or occupational level, but should not be regarded as the only means for education. He urged young people to assume positions of responsibility and leadership.

Dean Chant, chairman of a royal commission which the professions on too lofty a pedestal, Dean Chant said.

Indians 'Obsessed'

Claim Most of B.C. Territory

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia Indians have an "obsession" regarding their claim to most of that province's territory, Senator Sydney Smith (L.-British Columbia) said yesterday.

He told a parliamentary committee on Indian affairs the claim should not be ignored.

"It is a serious thing in our province that keeps the whole Indian question in a state of flux," he said. "Younger Indians trying to do something for their people are incensed with the idea of unfairness."

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) said the claim had been treated in the past by methods that would not stand up in court.

Wednesday the committee was told that B.C. Indians contend that since their land was not taken by conquest, the Crown was bound to obtain it by treaty. The only negotiations were for 358 acres on Vancouver Island bought in the 1850s and for 104,000 square miles on the east side of the Rocky Mountains ceded by treaty in 1899.

Indians dispute the title to some 219,000 remaining square miles of territory.

Mr. Howard maintained that, although the federal government had agreed in 1914 to refer the question to the Exchequer Court, Indians were, in effect, asked to be heard before their case was heard.

They had backed out of a court procedure mainly because of a federal provision. It asked Indians to agree to surrender their title, if their claim proved valid in exchange for other benefits.

"To insist upon agreement before the matter got into court was an unfair approach," he also objected to conclusions of a federal committee appointed in 1926 to study the issue. The committee decided that since the Indians in 1914 declined to have their claim settled in court, "the matter should be finally closed."

Mr. Howard said the attitude of "you had your chance once" is not legally acceptable.

Fishboat Overdue; Crew Feared Lost

LOCKPORT, N.S. (UPI)—The 46-ton long-liner Harvey and Sisters was reported overdue at this Nova Scotia fishing port last night and concern was expressed for the safety of her veteran captain and six crew members.

The Lockport-owned vessel has not been heard from since Saturday when she left Halifax for the fishing grounds south of the ship's graveyard of Sable Island after undergoing engine repairs.

An effort to contact the ship by marine radio yesterday failed and it was feared that the vessel may have run into trouble in rough seas which lashed the province's south shore during the weekend.

Other fishing vessels put into port before the storm broke.

Residents of this tiny Shelburn County community have often experienced the long waiting periods for overdue vessels—some of which never returned. Three long-liners were lost in an Atlantic storm last March with 17 men aboard.

Mrs. Earl Whiteway, wife of the Harvey and Sisters captain, said she planned to ask RCAF search and rescue to start a search if the vessel was not heard from soon.

Maruffa Favored in Record-Entry Swiftsure

Welcoming Ceremony Tonight

Leading contender in Saturday's annual yachting classic, the gruelling 136.2-nautical-mile Swiftsure Race, will be the American yawl Maruffa, experts here said yesterday.

Sixty American and Canadian racing yachts are entered in the weekend event, an all-time record since Swiftsure's inception in 1930. Largest previous entry was 46 in 1950.

MOST COLORFUL

Perhaps the most colorful highlight, so far as the general public is concerned, will be the welcoming ceremonies at the Inner Harbor at 7 p.m. today.

The harbor will be filled with yachts ranging in size from 26 feet to about 90 feet, each dressed over-all in bright signal flags.

SEA CHANTIES

Ald. Austin Curtis will welcome visiting skippers, on behalf of Mayor Percy Scurrell. Descriptions of the yachts will be given over a public address system, and the Meistersingers will give sea chanties from the Black Ball wharf.

HMCS Naden band will play during a sunset ceremony on the lawn of the legislative buildings, after which Victoria yachting photographer James McVie will give a showing of color slides of previous Swiftsures, on the lawn of the Empress Hotel.

ODGEN POINT

The race will start at 11 a.m. Saturday from Breichie Ledge, off the Odgen Point breakwater. The course will be to the Swiftsure Lightship at the entrance of Juan de Fuca Strait, and back to Inner Harbor.

Vying for the major trophies will be 32 American and 28 Canadian yachts.

FOUR OR FIVE

The 57-foot Maruffa, owned by Seattle architect John Graham, has crossed the finish line first on four or five occasions in recent years. She is expected to arrive at Inner Harbor this afternoon.

Largest contingent is Royal Vancouver Yacht Club with 19 entries, a record for Swiftsure entries from that city. There are 16 from Seattle Yacht Club, 10 from the Corinthian Yacht Club of Seattle, four from Tacoma Yacht Club, three from West Vancouver Yacht Club, one from Bellingham, one from the Queen City Yacht Club of Seattle, and the RCN's large training yacht, HMCS Oriole.

FIVE ENTRIES

Royal Victoria Yacht Club, host to the annual classic, has five entries. Dick James will be in Longula II, and Hunter Vogel will sail Aida, last year's Class B winner. Racing for the first time will be Cmdr. John Reed in Jay Jay, and Ned Ash in Sandy Sanderson's Elo.

First yacht to cross the finish line will win the City of Victoria Trophy. Overall winner on a handicap basis will claim the Swiftsure Trophy. There are also trophies for Class AA, Class A, Class BB, and Class B winners.

Funeral Home Zone Approved

City council yesterday gave council approval to creation of a funeral home zone on the south side of Fort Street in spite of the protests of an estimated 85 per cent of adjacent property owners.

The rezoning was passed on behalf of Chaplin's Funeral Chapel, 990 Quadra, whose present location is destined for park development as part of the Cathedral Hill Civic Precinct project.

ADJACENT TO SITE

Objections to the rezoning bylaw were voiced by residents and owners in the area and through counsel for other owners.

W. H. Haldane, solicitor for the owner of The Connoisseur Shop, 1156 Fort, said 85 per cent of property owners adjacent to the site have protested the creation of a new funeral home zone at 1153 and 1147 Fort, a short distance east of Cook Street.

Lynn V. Gale, holder of a mortgage on nearby property, said construction of a funeral home there would destroy real estate value.

Solicitor Alan E. Bigelow, representing Chaplin's, told

All Ready for Swiftsure

Early arrivals for Saturday's start of Swiftsure classic drew a number of spectators to Inner Harbor last night. Sixty yachts will be moored

Girlie Shows Disgrace

Presence of "girlie shows" in Victoria is a disgrace, an alderman told city council yesterday.

Ald. Michael Griffin said he saw no place in Victoria for such shows as one which was part of the midway at last week's annual Jaycee fair.

He said young lads had been seen "smoking into the place."

Mayor Percy Scurrell said he did not believe it was necessary to draw the subject to the attention of Jaycees. "They are not happy about it either."

St. John's

Burned-Out Church Restored by Fall

MARY MICHAUX

Hopes are high that the congregation of St. John's Anglican Church will be back in the church for services about Labor Day.

The structure was burned out completely in a disastrous fire early last Dec. 9, but workmen of Farmer Construction Ltd. are making steady headway in rebuilding the historic church.

Passersby noted some time ago that the roof had been replaced. They cannot see the strides being made within. Under the roof, new beams are all in place. Repointing of the undamaged brickwork should be completed next week.

Pillars have been replaced and are awaiting finishing. New window-molding is being fabricated by workmen on the church's new floor, and in the basement drains are being placed under a flooring that will be 10 inches above the former level.

In about two weeks passersby will note another replacement: glass going in on the side windows. This will be a fine wire-glass which will be installed like storm windows, and which will remain as a protection for the stained glass to go in later.

Translucent cathedral glass will be used in the higher level windows, and the huge windows at the front, through which afternoon sun shines directly across the length of the building to the altar, will be of special, glare-proof Belgian glass.

This is due for installation about the end of June. Bigger basement windows will let the light in through glass bricks.

Builders say the stained glass is not expected before next year, but the new organ should be in place by next Easter.

Downtown Parking Crisis

600-Car Garage Plan Wins Council Approval

$1,000,000 Answer

By TERRY HAMMOND

Mayor Percy Scurrell yesterday unfolded a $1,000,000 lease-purchase solution to Victoria's downtown parking crisis and won instant approval of the plan from an enthusiastic city council.

The scheme stems from a Vancouver construction company's offer to build two parking garages here and lease them to the city for 20 years. After the lease expired the buildings would be city property.

BY COMPARISON

The garages would provide parking space for 600 cars and could be in operation before the end of this year. By comparison, the Hudson's Bay Company's two-storey parking lot holds 426 cars.

City council took immediate steps to implement the proposal in one of three ways:

● The two parking garages would be financed and built by Victoria contractors.

● One of the two would be built by Victoria contractors and the other by Dominion Construction Ltd. of Vancouver.

● Both would be built by Dominion Construction.

The Vancouver firm already owns the site for one of the garages and has optioned the site for the second. Under terms of the offer the option on the second site would be relinquished at cost to any local contractor designated by city council.

PICK UP OPTION

If a local contractor made the city an acceptable offer for both buildings it could pick up the option on one but would have to buy its own site for the other.

Location of the two buildings was chosen by the Victoria Advisory Parking Commission, whose report on the city's five-year downtown parking needs was released simultaneously with the lease back proposal yesterday.

A 400-car garage would be erected near Blanshard and View and a 200-car garage near View and Langley.

FIRST HINT

First hint of an off-street parking plan financed by private capital came about three weeks ago when Mayor Scurrell told reporters he would shortly unfold a scheme which would provide a downtown parking solution "at no cost to the taxpayer."

Cost of leasing the parking garages would be recovered from motorists who use them.

On the basis of preliminary estimates made by City Manager C. C. Wyatt, the annual rental on the buildings would be approximately $78,000 a year and at 60 per cent day-time occupancy the gross income would be about $114,000 a year.

The city would staff and operate the buildings and charge parking rates comparable with those exacted by on-street parking meters.

Mr. Wyatt told council that initial study of the plan indicated the parking garages would be self-supporting over the 20 years.

Council approved the proposal in principle and authorized city officials to call for proposals from local contractors and, subsequently, to negotiate with Dominion Construction.

2,000 Car Parks Needed by City

Downtown Victoria must have 2,000 additional short-term parking spaces during the next five years and 800 of them immediately, according to the Victoria Advisory Parking Commission.

The commission, set up by city council seven weeks ago at the request of Mayor Scurrell, completed its study of the five-year downtown parking needs of the city a week ago and its report was released yesterday.

Simultaneously, the mayor outlined to council the private capital plan to provide the area with some 600 of the 800 additional parking spaces required immediately.

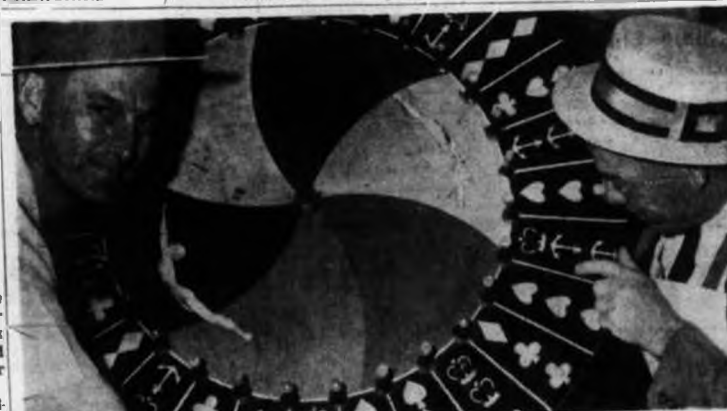

Commission recommended immediate development of two parking garages, one on View between Blanshard and Douglas, and the other in the area bounded by Fort, Government, Yates and Wharf.

Construction of the View Street garage should be accompanied by provision of direct pedestrian access to Fort and Yates, the commission's report states.

Second phase of development in the five-year plan would be provision of parking facilities in the block bounded by Yates, Blanshard, Douglas and Johnson, followed by garages at Broad and Courment (site of a one-level city parking lot) and near Government and Courtney.

A fifth garage near Broughton and Quadra would be developed.

'Klondike Nights' to Prepare Princess for Alaska Run

When the CPR coastal steamer Princess Louise sets out this weekend for a summer on the Alaska run, it will carry memories of a highly appropriate "initiation."

Friday and Saturday evenings will be "Klondike Nights" aboard the ship, run by the Victoria Rotary Club to promote the work of Goodwill Enterprises in the city.

Rotarians and Rotary-Annes, dressed in costumes of the Gay '90's, will welcome guests aboard each evening. Admission, $3.50 per person, includes a smorgasbord dinner starting at 7:30 p.m. in the dining salon.

In addition there will be dancing and games of chance.

The Princess Louise has been made available to the club free of charge by the CPR to help with this project to promote self-employment of handicapped persons. The ship will be moored at the CPR wharf. Tickets are available at club headquarters, 816 Wharf; at 1125 Blanshard, 774 Fort, 2891 Douglas or 737 Yates.

Tall Story by Pearson Hails Perfect Party Man

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

Mainly about the byelection ... or, when Friday comes can Monday be far behind?

PARTY FIRST: According to Lester B. Pearson, most Liberals put the interests of the party ahead of everything else—even themselves.

To illustrate the point he told the story of the four important Liberal MPs who were returning from a curling trip when their car hit an icy patch and skidded sideways towards a tree.

"They knew they weren't going to make it," said Mr. Pearson.

Then the driver, with what might have been his last words on this earth, turned around to the three terrified men and with a grin exclaimed: "I wonder how these four byelections are going to go?"

SIGN LANGUAGE: Scored poster at Sidney boasts George Hahn as the Social Credit candidate ... And then CFAX gooted by putting out notices in large letters advertising broadcasts by George Hahn.

One person, grabbing a late-night snack at Paul's, is apparently divided in his party number of people who attend than it was?

loyalties. His car bears signs of both the New Party and the Liberals ... The Colonist also gets mixed up sometimes. Yesterday they were still advertising Wednesday's meeting of Lester B. Pearson!

THE WAILING CALL: If nothing else, the events of the last few days have finally shaken George (Chastain's) Conservative workers out of their lethargy.

They are now regretting their abrupt refusal of professional organizing help in the early days of the campaign when they were sure that no matter what happened their victory was in the bag.

Now they're not so sure.

COUNTED OUT: It would appear the afternoon paper good crowds both here and in Edmonton, so why bother trying to make it look better?

Then there was a meeting in Edmonton, N.B., which they said drew 2,700.

This telegram was received by Bill Gage from the former New Brunswick attorney-general R. G. I. Fairweather.

"Reliable on the spot information from Edmonton estimates Pearson crowd 2,000 after intensive organization all over country ... Progressive Conservatives had substantial larger meeting the week before. Indications are for PC victory."

Odd thing about it all is that Mr. Pearson drew really good crowds both here and in Edmonton, so why bother trying to make it look better?

BRIEFLY NOTED: Similarity of the oratory styles of Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi and B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault is amazing. Close your eyes and you can hardly tell which one is speaking ... Friend of ours mentioned yesterday that the growing strength of David Gross is the result of the same sort of thing which makes Don Menner's Jubilee the most-watched television show in Canada. The folksy approach ... Lester Pearson last week got the shortest introduction of all time from a chairman named Pat Murphy, who said: "Stand up. You're on!"

Prince and Princess Marry in Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Swedish Princess Birgitta today wed Prince Johann Georg of Germany in Sweden's first royal marriage in 26 years.

The ceremony was being televised all over Europe and 750 dignitaries packed the throne hall of the Royal Palace.

Birgitta, 24, and Prince Johann, 29, will go through a second ceremony next Tuesday at the Stadtpfarr Church in Signaringen, Bavaria, seat of the Hohenzollern family. Birgitta is a Protestant and Johann a Roman Catholic.

King Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, his wife, Queen Louise, and Queen Ingrid of Denmark were among a host of dignitaries that attended the wedding.

Birgitta, an apple-cheeked fencing champion and gymnastics instructor, and Prince Johann, an expert skier, fell in love on the Alpine ski slopes after they met for the first time 18 months ago at a cocktail party in Munich.

No foreign royal families were invited to today's ceremony, not even the kings of Denmark and Norway. Queen Ingrid of Denmark was here because she is the bride's aunt.

The beautiful Birgitta is the first of King Gustaf Adolf's grandchildren to marry. Her older sister, Princess Margaretha, has remained unmarried since her family broke up her much-publicized romance with Briton Robin Douglas-Home two years ago.

King Hussein's

Bride May Be Named Consort

SHARE GUEBENJIAN AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—King Hussein, 25, Thursday wed Antoinette Avril Gardiner, pretty, 20-year-old daughter of a British army officer.

The Arab monarch's Moslem subjects danced and sang in celebration in the streets here as dark Hussein and blonde "Tony" Gardiner were married in Zaharan Palace.

Miss Gardiner, garbed in a blue dress by London designer Ronald Paterson, was addressed by her new Moslem name of "Muna el Hussein"—choice of Hussein—during the simple Islamic ceremony attended by only about 100 close relatives, government ministers and notables. She became a Moslem last month.

It was the king's second marriage. He wed Princess Dina, a cousin, in 1955. The marriage ended in divorce in 1957, a year after producing a daughter, Princess Alia.

Miss Gardiner is the daughter of Lt.-Col. Walter Percy Gardiner, 47, a former military adviser to the king.

The 10-minute marriage ceremony was conducted by a portly, black-robed, bearded judge, Hamzeh Arabi.

"We have," he intoned, "created you couples to live on earth and bring children to the benefit of humanity."

Muna made her marriage vows in Arabic after the king asked her "do you accept me as your husband?"

It was indicated Wednesday that Muna would be considered as the king's consort—not the queen.

Mrs. Stokes Life Member

At a recent meeting of the Diocesan Board of the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church, Mrs. Iris Stokes of St. Mary's Evening Branch was made a life member. Mrs. B. P. Harding, president, conducted the service and Mrs. E. Winsor presented the certificate. Mrs. M. Cowdrey presented the WA gold badge.

Mrs. C. N. Whipple and Mrs. B. P. Harrison, youth leaders, spoke of their attendance at a conference at Qu'Appelle in April, where there were 67 delegates and 11 staff members present.

Miss Florence Lamb, Dominion supervisor, girl's department, will be in Victoria from Oct. 20 to 25.

Mrs. G. Edgcombe reminded members of the Caroline Macklem garden party to be held Saturday, June 24, from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Three very attractive young girls who played a large part in the mammoth fashion show staged last evening at Mount View High School are Miss Sheila Kitley, assistant manager; Miss Della Irwin, wardrobe mistress, and Miss Pauline Carter, commentator. The girls are wearing clothes they made in home economics, lovely examples of the fashions seen at the show.

"HE LOOKS YOUNG... SHE'S LOOKING OLDER!"

Unfair—yet how often you've heard such comments about husband-and-wife! When age begins to show in a woman's face, it's generally due to skin dryout—a condition caused by lack of natural oils and moisture. The skin coarsens, little lines and crow's feet appear. But you can treat this problem—with POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a remarkable substance that starts repair work in just 10 minutes! Allantoin floats off lifeless surface cells, opens the way for Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to penetrate deep-down. Almost overnight, your complexion becomes softer, smoother, younger-looking! Prevent skin dryout. Get POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

High Fashions Seen at School

Last evening in the auditorium at Mount View High School, 200 girls presented a very interesting and ingeniously planned fashion show of clothes they made in home economics class.

The showing was presented in five scenes. There were fashions for the school room, for travelling, for afternoon wear, cottons for summer and frocks for parties.

The clothes were shown in settings of a school room, travel bureau, cotton carnival, afternoon tea and French Import Room.

There was also a display of work done by students in home furnishings class, including draperies, bedspreads, upholstery and slip covers. Industrial arts class also had a display, and refreshments were served by the home economics department.

Baby Due in Fall

Princess and Husband 'Delighted' Over News

LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Margaret, married a year ago to commoner Antony Armstrong-Jones, is expecting a baby in the fall, it was announced Thursday night.

An official at her home, Kensington Palace, said the 30-year-old princess and her husband are "delighted" over the forthcoming birth of Margaret's first child.

The baby, who will be fifth in line in succession to the throne, is expected to be born in October or November.

The announcement from the palace said Margaret will undertake no more official engagements.

Court circles promptly pointed out that with a baby on the way, the question of a title for Margaret's children becomes of pressing importance.

As things stand now, the baby despite its position near the throne, would be plain Mister or Miss Jones.

The brief announcement Thursday night said: "It is announced from Kensington Palace that Princess Margaret is expecting her first child in the autumn and therefore will undertake no further official engagements from today."

"Her royal highness is being attended by physicians Lord Evans, Sir John Weir and Sir John Peel."

The couple now live at No. 10 Kensington Palace, but it is planned that at the end of the year they will move into One A Kensington Palace, a much larger home.

A few hours before the news was disclosed, the princess at-

Bride's Family Phones From Home in England

The wedding took place recently uniting Jennifer Carter Stokes and Michael Graham Hanna in historic St. Paul's Church, in Esquimalt, which was beautifully decorated with blue iris, white tulips and larkspur. The Rev. A. Roberts officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. W. Stokes of Saltford, near Bristol, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. S. Preston Hanna, 363 Lamson Street.

Entering the church to the strains of Purcell's Trumpet Voluntary, the lovely bride wore a dress of ivory brocade, with bouffant puffed skirt of ballerina length. She carried a bouquet of blue iris and white lilac. Her only jewelry was a pendant worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The matron of honor, Mrs. David Barlow, wore a jacket dress of powder-blue embroidered linen and carried a bouquet of yellow iris and white lilac.

Mr. Donald Moulson of Vancouver acted as best man; and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Collis and Mr. Donald Collis. Mr. W. S. Emmerton gave the bride away. After the service, a reception was held at 1021 Munro Street.

During the reception, a long distance call came from the bride's family in England.

For her going away, the bride chose a royal blue wool suit and white hat and accessories.

The young couple left, they will reside at 1017 by car for California. On their Wychbury Street.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 27 and have been married for 10 years. This last year I've become bored with my husband, housework and marriage in general. I've taken self-improvement courses, become active in civic affairs and have even tried to spend more time with my children, but nothing helps. I feel a need for excitement.

Is this natural or is it a danger signal? Don't you feel it's as much a husband's place to keep his wife interested as it is her place to keep him from straying? Could it be that he's falling down on the job?

I need advice. —EDGEY.

Dear Edgey: You've got the seven-year itch three years late. No marriage can be maintained at white-heat forever. It's bound to bog down and even get a little drab unless an effort is made to make things interesting.

Don't depend on your husband to keep your marriage hopping. For some reason this is the wife's department. She plans the social calendar and sets the tempo. It's up to you to feed marriage some vitamins. Maybe YOU are anemic. When did you last have a complete physical check-up?

Dear Ann: A friend of ours whom we all love and respect married an obnoxious girl after a brief courtship. He's in his late 30's, and we were all so happy for him—until we met her.

She tells him to "Shut his trap" when she doesn't agree with him and her conversation is vulgar and coarse. She is free with her "frank opinions" which are more like insults. In less than a month she has made herself thoroughly unpopular.

My husband says he's not going to put up with her even if it means dropping him. I hate to see this happen but I'm at a loss. Any suggestions? —STYMIED.

Dear Stymied: Most people know at least one couple of which they say, "Love him, can't stand her"—or vice versa. The couple usually falls out of favor, socially, as a unit. Perhaps if this happens to your friend, he'll wise up and teach his bride some manners.

Dear Ann Landers: I really have a problem. It is my seventh grade math teacher.

When she goes to explain something she puts it on the blackboard and then before it has a chance to soak in, she erases it. When she calls on me to do a problem and I don't know how, she says "Why weren't you listening?"

Please don't suggest that my parents help me with math at home. My dad is too busy and my mother says she never did understand it. She claims the math teachers passed her out of pity.

This teacher may be a genius but she isn't teaching me anything. I say if you haven't got it, you haven't got it. Can you help me? —D's.

Dear D's: I'm the wrong person to come to for help with a math problem. I haven't got it either.

DENTS IN FURNITURE

Wet the affected part with warm water. Fold a piece of brown kraft paper five or six times, soak the paper in warm water, and lay it on the dent. Apply a warm (not hot) iron until the moisture evaporates. If the bruises are not gone, repeat the process. If the surface is not broken the dent will disappear. Be sure to repolish the area.

No Landslide For Liberals

The Liberal party is regaining the support of the voter but will not win Monday's by-election in a landslide, Liberal leader Lester Pearson predicted last night.

He spoke at the Empress Hotel to about 120 persons at a dinner meeting of the Laurier Club of Greater Victoria and Lower Vancouver Island.

NEXT ELECTION

Mr. Pearson also predicted the Liberals will win the next national election on the basis of the failure of the Diefenbaker government to fulfil its election promises made four years ago.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker had "dazzled" the voters "with a vision of the future. He got them excited, and they took their excitement out on us."

'Choppers' Used

Commando Patrols Practised

Commando like reconnaissance patrols behind enemy lines, dangerous work in wartime, are being practised near Nanaimo by soldiers from Work Point Barracks.

The 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is getting in shape for summer camp at Camp Wainwright, Alta.

Maj. R. J. Frost, commander of "D" company, has entrenched his company as "enemy" positions in bush country about 15 miles from Nanaimo.

MOUNT BENNON

A navy helicopter lands two-man reconnaissance patrols in the vicinity of Mount Benson and Black Jack ridge.

Each patrol has to infiltrate enemy defensive positions, find out their strength and firepower, and make it alone on foot back to Nanaimo military camp.

The operation, called "Chopper One," tests the individual soldier's ability to move unnoticed in enemy territory and obtain information without being captured or observed.

MOVE RAPIDLY

The two-man patrols must move rapidly over the ground and rely on fieldcraft and survival training to overcome obstacles.

Veteran airborne sailors taking part in the army navy operation are navy helicopter pilot, Lieut. D. E. Munro, and his crewman, PO Albert Sunderland.

Floating Dances Pay for Music

PENTICTON (CP) — City council is studying proposals to convert a railway barge into a floating dance hall. Dave Hodges, high school music director, suggested proceeds from the hall could be used for music scholarships. Council purchased the barge from the CPR for $250.

RCN Planes To Drop Flares

RCN aircraft will be dropping flares near Christopher Point in the Rocky Point area for about an hour today, starting at 9 a.m.

The aircraft from VU-33 squadron will be testing a new type of flare, under direction of RMC Dockyard officials.

Earlier, Mr. Pearson said at a press conference that it was given assent in January.

Writ Sent Piledrivers

An injunction was served last night against a piledrivers union in Victoria in connection with information pickets at Campbell River, where a new dock is being constructed for the Quadra Island ferry.

The injunction was served on the Piledrivers, Bridge, Dock and Wharf Builders' Union, Local 2415, which represents union workers throughout Vancouver Island and has its headquarters in Victoria.

A union spokesman said the injunction came after work on the new dock by "forced, cheap labor" stopped more than a week ago when picketed by unemployed, veteran piledrivers from Campbell River, some of them on charity.

About 10 unemployed piledrivers there were counting heavily on being hired for the two-month job, the spokesman said. Instead, the highways department rented a piledriving rig from a local contractor and brought in about eight experienced highway maintenance men to do the job, said the union spokesman.

Highway maintenance men are paid about one dollar less per hour than the prevailing rate of $2.98 per hour paid to a union man, he added.

Work on the project started more than three weeks ago but stopped a little more than a week ago when the information pickets appeared on the scene, he said.

This is another example of the minister of highways using

Bill 43 to get forced, cheap labor. The government employees' association even admits this isn't their type of work.

Island Saddled with High Fuel Costs

COURTENAY—A major oil company official offered little hope yesterday of any improvement in the difference between Vancouver Island and mainland gasoline prices.

J. D. Urquhart, Pacific region sales manager for Imperial Oil, told the Chamber of Commerce any cut in Vancouver Island prices would require raising Lower Mainland prices.

"Lower Mainland motorists would raise one of the biggest

Mainland Benefits from '59 Price War

noises that has been heard in the country," he said.

"They would object to subsidizing the price to motorists elsewhere."

Present differential is 8.1 cents a gallon between Courtenay and the lowest retail prices in Vancouver, he said.

Mr. Urquhart said Vancouver motorists were enjoying an unusual bargain brought about by competitive pressures from private brands and the large volume of sales.

Depressed prices established by the gas war of two years ago likely would continue for some time, he said.

W. H. Bailey, chamber executive member, suggested higher island prices were helping to subsidize mainland motorists. Mr. Urquhart replied his company had absorbed most of the 4-cent drop from the price war.

Recent suggestions that the oil industry in B.C. should be brought under control of the Public Utilities Commission would destroy competition, he said. Oil was not a utility like gas or electricity where the customer has only one choice of supply and as single sources of supply required government regulation, he said.

The company is sending speakers to various parts of the province to give the public a better understanding of the industry as a result of questions raised in the last legislative session.

Tory Policy Split Hamilton Target

Tory and Liberal defence policies were termed ambiguous last night by the New Party candidate in Monday's Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election.

Glen Hamilton told a meeting in Cordova Bay Community Hall he believed External Affairs Minister Howard Green is sincere in wanting to keep nuclear weapons out of Canada.

"Mr. (Defence Minister) Harkness is also sincere in wanting nuclear arms for Canada. Unfortunately, I think Harkness will win the argument. So if you want nuclear arms in Canada, vote Tory."

NOT AN CLEAR He said the Liberal policy was not as clear or honest as that of the Tories. Mr. (Liberal leader Lester) Pearson says that he is against Canadian nuclear weapons, but in the next he says he might take a different position.

Mr. Hamilton charged that Mr. Pearson and Liberal candidate David Groos agree about the dangers of the spread of nuclear weapons but refuse to say what they would do about it.

New Party MP Erhart Regier said the monetary and fiscal policies of the Tories must be reversed to achieve a healthy economy and abolish unemployment.

He said the money supply has not been permitted to expand sufficiently to keep pace with the increase in production.

Mrs. Camille Mather, CCF MLA for Delta, criticized Tory candidate George Chatterton's "harsh attitude toward the New Party policy of a national health insurance scheme."

400 Municipal Workers Out on Strike at Surrey

SURREY, B.C. (CP)—More than 400 inside and outside municipal employees of this Fraser Valley municipal ity of 6,300 went on strike Thursday for higher pay.

The strike involves all municipal workers except supervisory staff, firemen, policemen and radio crews. The Surrey Municipal Employees Union said its members would be available for emergency work.

The municipality covers a large area of 132 square miles across the Fraser River from New Westminster. The 16 in side and outside workers of neighboring Delta may join Surrey workers in strike action today.

Winds Drop

B.C. Firefighters Get Major Break

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Light winds in northeastern British Columbia Thursday gave firefighters a major opportunity to bring four large forest fires under control.

B.C. Forest Service protection officer Dennis McDonald said, "If the winds hold off we may be able to tie up the Stewart Lake fire. This is a major break for us."

BLAZE HELD

The giant Stewart Lake blaze, 40 miles west of Dawson Creek, still remains out of control, but was being held on the southwest side where it threatens valuable timber. It has already burned across 25,000 acres since breaking out six days ago.

Three other fires also remain out of control in the same general area, part of the province's vast Fort George forest district.

ROADS CLOSED

Meanwhile, in northwestern Alberta, closing of all district roads to all pleasure travel was announced by Lands and Forest Minister Williams because of the extreme fire hazard.

The ban does not extend to district residents or travel for business purposes.

The Manitoba government has announced that travel restrictions in forest areas will go into effect today because of high fire hazards.

The announcement said patrolmen will be on duty and travellers will be allowed to pass through bush areas, but only to destinations declared to the patrols.

Variety Concert Keynote

Variety will be the keynote of the second annual band concert of HMCS Naden naval band to be presented at the Royal Theatre on Monday evening.

Under the direction of Commissioned Officer Thomas W. Milner, CD, LRAM, RCN, 50 members of the band will present a two-hour program with something of interest for everyone.

Two guest artists will be featured, Eleanor Duff, popular Victoria contralto, who will sing the aria "Seguedilla" from Carmen; "Habanera" also from Carmen; and "Hello Young Lovers" from "The King and I." Well-known Michael Rogers, tenor, will present the aria "Addio Fiorita Asil" from "Madam Butterfly"; the song "Come Back to Sorrento"; and "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing."

Thirty-six members of the band will leave their instruments for a while during the program to assume their second function as the RCN Band Choir, and present a western medley.

HIGHLIGHTS
Among other highlights of the concert will be French horn soloist Petty Officer Charles Moore and for those who enjoy a more modern touch, the naval band's solo quintette, which consists of a clarinet and four saxophones, will present "Five Mellow Winds."

And by way of real modern music the navy's music-makers will present the swing-time "Doodletown Fifers" guaranteed to start feet a-tappin'.

All proceeds of the concert will go to the Armed Services Centre on Broad Street—a "home away-from-home" and meeting place for personnel of all armed forces serving in this area.

Discussing the second annual band concert of HMCS Naden naval band are Michael Rogers, tenor, Lt. Cmdr. Stanley Sunderland, O. C. of the RCN's school of music, Eleanor Duff, singing star and Commissioned Officer Thomas W. Milner, bandmaster.

Slick Ploy Draws Ire Of Fulton

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the slickest parliamentary ploys in recent years brought down the wrath of Justice Minister Fulton in the Commons Thursday.

On March 22, Chesley W. Carter (L. — Burin-Burgeo) brought in a bill to repeal the Fisheries Act and then re-enact it, word for word.

His idea was that he and his colleagues could then try to amend the Fisheries Act by deleting clauses which the opposition said conflicted with the Bill of Rights.

The opposition maintains this forced the government itself to amend the act, which it has done, though not fully to Mr. Carter's satisfaction.

Mr. Fulton Thursday described Mr. Carter's bill as a "monstrosity" and "absurdity" and charged that Mr. Carter had resorted to "subterfuge," "misrepresentation" and "abuse" of parliamentary processes.

REFUSES TO WITHDRAW — Mr. Carter demanded that Mr. Fulton withdraw the charges. The minister declined and repeated them.

Mr. Carter said it was unworthy of Mr. Fulton to insinuate he had used subterfuge. He had complied with all the Commons rules. Otherwise, the bill would never have reached the Commons floor.

Mr. Fulton said that when the bill was introduced Mr. Carter had explained that its purpose was to revise the Fisheries Act to bring it into conformity with the Bill of Rights.

But this impression left with the Commons was erroneous because the bill was the Fisheries Act, "comma for comma."

Frank Howard (CCF—

Skeena) said the Bill of Rights requires the justice minister to report every instance where a bill conflicts with the Bill of Rights.

Martin Protests

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Martin, acting leader of the Liberal opposition, protested yesterday against a last-minute switch in government business before the Commons—a change that replaced a health debate with one on justice.

His protest sparked a stormy, and sometimes humorous, battle.

New Impetus Will Cost U.S. Billions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Americans Thursday to shoulder new multi-billion-dollar burdens to conquer space and extend foreign aid.

In an extraordinary State of the Union message, delivered in person to Congress, Kennedy said the U.S. must aim to land a man on the moon this decade.

AID INCREASE

He said it must speed work on the Rover nuclear rocket which some day may help explore "the very ends of the solar system."

And he called for:

- A step-up in foreign aid.
- A tripling of funds for nuclear fallout shelters and other protective measures.
- Revamping and strengthening of military forces, especially their ability to fight brush-type battles or guerrilla warfare.
- More money for propaganda broadcasts.
- A new drive for disarmament.
- A new program to re-train Americans left jobless by automation.

THE PRICE

The price of all this he set at $1,500,000,000 in the coming fiscal year and many more billions later. For example, he said the speeded-up space drive will cost an additional $7,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 over the next five years and will go on for many years.

NO NEW TAXES

Kennedy asked no new taxes. In fact, he took the position that his "very urgent requests" could be met "without a budget deficit if our economy moves ahead."

The president was interrupted several times by applause, notably when he proclaimed that the economy is looking up.

RECOVERY HALTED

"The recession has been halted. Recovery is under way," he said.

Though recovery is under way unemployment is "a major social evil," he said, and hence:

"I am transmitting to the Congress a new manpower development and training program, to train or retrain several hundred thousand workers in new occupational skills over a four-year period, in order to replace those skills made obsolete by automation and industrial change with the new skills which new processes demand."

MILITARY BOOST

Other proposals:

- Economic aid abroad — a $250,000,000 increase, bringing the total for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to $2,650,000,000.
- Military aid abroad — a $285,000,000 increase over previous requests of $1,000,000,000.

Space — for the coming year $679,000,000 additional to work on the moon project, hasten development of the nuclear space rocket, speed up the use of satellites for world communications and weather observation.

REVIEW CALLED

Intelligence — "Our whole intelligence effort must be reviewed, and its coordination with other elements assured." Integration — he called on Americans to "show friendliness to students and visitors from other lands."

Bennett Optimistic About Columbia After Fleming Chat

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Thursday night he is optimistic about the progress of the Columbia River hydro-electric development after private talks Thursday with federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Both spoke at a meeting of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association.

A spokesman for Premier Bennett said the premier and Mr. Fleming talked mainly about financing of the giant project. The meeting was described as "short but harmonious."

Mr. Fleming indicated later that efforts will be made in the next two weeks to select a date for another meeting.

British Columbia wants federal permission to export surplus hydro-electric power on a leased basis.

"TRADITIONAL"

In his speech, Premier Bennett said his province considers it urgent that the federal government "bring up to date" its export policy on hydro-electric power.

"I am referring, of course, to the traditional opposition of national governments to the export of surplus hydro-electric power," Mr. Bennett said.

NON-RENEWABLE

The premier said natural gas, oil and coal all were exported.

"Every one of these resources is used to produce power," he added, "and every one of them is non-renewable; the day will surely come when we will have no more gas, oil or coal either for export or even for our own use."

Pearson Accused Of A-Bomb Scare

By PETER BRUTON

Defence Minister Douglas Harkness last night accused Liberal leader Lester Pearson of trying to frighten and alarm people about nuclear weapons and defence.

"This action I deplore," he told an audience of 120 at Cordova Bay.

Canada's primary aim, he said, was to try to bring about agreement on world disarmament. If this was successful, there would be no need for nuclear weapons.

"In the meantime there is no need to make a decision in this regard," said the minister, speaking in support of Conservative candidate George Chatterton.

Even if Canada did decide to acquire nuclear weapons, there was no chance of any of the types planned starting off a nuclear war, he continued.

"They can only be used as defensive weapons," stated Mr. Harkness. "Talk of Canada joining the nuclear club is just propaganda and has no real validity. Prudence requires we should have carriers which can be equipped with nuclear warheads if this terrible necessity ever arises."

'Arrow Great Mistake'

During his speech Mr. Harkness:

- Charged Mr. Pearson with advocating Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons three years ago.
- Said Liberal defence policy was to do away with the RCN's destroyer-escorts and make the navy "some sort of glorified merchant marine."
- Described development of the Avro Arrow jet interceptor as probably one of the greatest mistakes any government has ever made.
- Told the Conservatives the only party with a clear defence policy.

Stated Canada must remain in NATO and NORAD.

Blamed "the Liberal press" for trying to create the impression that he and External Affairs Minister Howard Green were at odds over nuclear weapons.

Mr. Harkness said the nuclear weapons for the three types of carriers Canada had on order could never be used as offensive weapons.

He said there never had been any intention of Canada obtaining big offensive nuclear weapons "and Mr. Pearson knows that."

'Pearson Memory Bad'

Reading excerpts from Hansard of 1958, the minister said the Liberal leader had openly urged Canada to get nuclear weapons for its forces at that time.

"Now he's trying to frighten and alarm people about nuclear weapons and defence... Nobody knows where the Liberals stand."

"Every time Mr. Pearson has made a speech since the Liberal rally last January he has changed his position. He changes his position. He changes his position. He changes his position."

"The record of Mr. Pearson is one in which no one could take any pride. He either has a very bad memory or a great capacity to delude himself," he added.

Mr. Harkness stated: "The time to make the decision (about acquiring nuclear weapons) is when the time comes."

Referring to the Liberal leader's remarks about the scrapping of the Avro Arrow jet interceptor, the defence minister stated that the planes would have cost $15,000,000 each and that the huge cost would have meant "scrapping much of the army and navy strength."

"The cost would have been astronomical," he said.

"Under these circumstances I don't think anyone can take Mr. Pearson seriously any more," he said. "You can be sure what he says today won't be what he is saying a month from now."

Mr. Harkness said Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer had urged the replacement of Canada's destroyer-escorts and to acquire combat troop carriers and supply ships in their place.

'Purpose to Prevent War'

"The Liberal policy, as I see it, is to convert our navy into some sort of glorified merchant marine," he said.

The minister stated that Canada's destroyer-escorts were probably the finest in the world and the RCN's major role is anti-submarine warfare for which these ships are designed.

A large number of people, he said, had come to look upon armed forces equipment as the whole gamut of defence policy. There would always be arguments.

"Our forces at present are based on commitments we have made to NATO, NORAD and for any work we may be called upon to do for the United Nations," said Mr. Harkness.

During the past three or four years the government had been "quite rapidly" re-equipping all the armed forces, he said.

But, he emphasized, the primary purpose of all our armed forces was to prevent a war.

"The Conservative government is the only party in Canada which has a clear and definite defence policy and one readily understood by everyone," he said.

This policy had two objectives:

- To maintain peace; and
- To ensure that this country was not subjected to a foreign power and a way of life completely foreign.

Cafe Blast Hurts Seven

WINNIPEG (CP)—At least seven persons were injured Thursday night when an explosion ripped apart a restaurant on Main Street in north-end Winnipeg.

The Prague Cafe was open and occupied at the time of the blast, which tore the roof off the building and sent flames shooting into the sky. Several other buildings were damaged.

Fire Chief Dave Dunnett said he could not be certain, but he did not think anyone was trapped in the restaurant.

Dip in Juvenile Crime First in Many Years

OTTAWA (CP)—The first decrease in many years in the number of juveniles involved in criminal offences is noted in the RCMP's annual report for the year ended March 31, 1960, made public Thursday.

The number involved in Criminal Code offences totalled 6,055, a decrease of 200 or 3.3 per cent from the previous year.

Alaska-B.C. Link Closer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A report calling for a vast program of rail and highway communications between Alaska and the rest of the United States across Canada was recommended to Congress Thursday.

FINAL REPORT

The long-range transportation program, which would also include water links, would cost an estimated $325,000,000. It was recommended in the final report of the Alaska International rail and highway commission.

Senator Warren Magnuson, Democrat from the state of Washington, presented the report to the U.S. Senate.

Magnuson emphasized that the plan could be realized only with the co-operation of Canada. The report suggests that the U.S. state secretary undertake negotiations with the Canadian government.

Specifically, Magnuson said, the report calls for:

- The construction of a hard-surfaced highway system to serve Alaska, British Columbia and the Yukon and to provide a shorter highway than the existing Alaska Highway.
- The extension of the Alaska railroad to the Alaska-British Columbia border to connect eventually with a Canadian railway.

Senator Lambasts Firms For Jobs Discrimination

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator David Croll lambasted Canadian big business Thursday for practising what he called "discrimination against minority groups in filling executive positions."

The Ontario Senator also hit out at the trend toward amalgamation of big corporations and at discrimination favoring men over women in business.

AGAINST TREND

Senator Croll spoke at the upper chamber passed a bill authorizing the Canada Permanent Company to amalgamate with the Toronto General Trust Corporation. The bill now goes before the Commons.

The lawyer-senator said he wasn't against the bill—just the trend it represented.

'Minorities Ignored'

"To me it is disturbing and alarming to find that more and more economic power is becoming centralized in fewer and fewer hands."

Senator Croll named no specific companies as practising discrimination toward minority groups but he lambasted particularly banks, mortgage, insurance and trust companies.

MATTER OF RACE

"Few banks, mortgage companies, insurance and trust companies have permitted their high executive positions to be filled by men whose racial origins differ from that of Anglo-Saxons."

The 61-year-old senator came to Canada from Moscow at the age of five and is Canada's first Jewish senator.

Senator Croll said the thinking seems to be that it's all right to do business with minorities "but" keep them from going as far as their capabilities would and should take them.

'BLIND ALLEY'

"This sort of reactionary exclusiveness has no place in nation-building or organizational concept and permanence, and these managerial groups who are attempting to perpetuate themselves are leading us down a blind alley."

As for women, he said, "you would almost think they were non-existent."

No Marx In Their Program!

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Communist party of Manitoba has volunteered to step forward and teach the Red credo in the red schoolhouses of Canada in answer to a call by the ECAF Association for courses on communism.

This wasn't quite what the ECAF Association had in mind, a spokesman said last night. The course it recommended was "the dangers of communism."

Europe 'Split' Rapped

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sir Oliver Franks, British banker, insurance executive and former ambassador to the United States said Thursday in an interview here, division of Western Europe into the Outer Seven and Inner Six trading areas is nonsense.

"It is against the natural flow of trade. I would be surprised if it is a long-term permanent state of affairs."

Sir Oliver will receive an honorary degree at the University of British Columbia today.

He said he saw little likelihood of Britain joining the European Common Market.

Welcoming Ceremony Tonight

Leading contender in Saturday's annual yachting classic, the gruelling 136.2-nautical-mile Swiftsure Race, will be the American yawl Maruffa, experts here said yesterday.

Sixty American and Canadian racing yachts are entered in the weekend event, an all-time record since Swiftsure's inception in 1930. Largest previous entry was 46 in 1960.

MOST COLORFUL

Perhaps the most colorful highlight, so far as the general public is concerned, will be the welcoming ceremonies at the Inner Harbor at 7 p.m. today.

The harbor will be filled with yachts ranging in size from 26 feet to about 90 feet, each dressed over-all in bright signal flags.

SEA CHANTIES

Ald. Austin Curtis will welcome visiting skippers, on behalf of Mayor Percy Scurrah. Descriptions of the yachts will be given over a public address system, and the Meistersingers will give sea chanties from the Black Ball wharf.

HMCS Naden band will play during a sunset ceremony on the lawn of the legislative buildings, after which Victoria yachting photographer James McVie will give a showing of color slides of previous Swiftsures, on the lawn of the Empress Hotel.

ODDEN POINT

The race will start at 11 a.m. Saturday from Brochie Ledge, off the Odden Point breakwater. The course will be to the Swiftsure Lightship at the entrance of Juan de Fuca Strait, and back to Inner Harbor.

Vying for the major trophies will be 32 American and 28 Canadian yachts.

FOUR OR FIVE

The 67-foot Maruffa, owned by Seattle architect John Graham, has crossed the finish line first on four or five occasions in recent years. She is expected to arrive at Inner Harbor this afternoon.

Largest contingent is Royal Vancouver Yacht Club with 19 entries, a record for Swiftsure entries from that city. There are 16 from Seattle Yacht Club, 10 from the Corinthian Yacht Club of Seattle, four from Tacoma Yacht Club, three from West Vancouver Yacht Club, one from Bellingham, one from the Queen City Yacht Club of Seattle, and the RCN's large training yacht, HMCS Oriole.

FIVE ENTRIES

Royal Victoria Yacht Club, host to the annual classic, has five entries. Dick James will be in Lakona II, and Hunter Vogel will sail Aida, last year's Class B winner. Racing for the first time will be Cmdr. John Reed in Jay Jay, Dr. R. H. Trythall in Uwila, and Ned Ash in Sandy Sanderson's Elio.

First yacht to cross the finish line will win the City of Victoria Trophy. Over-all winner on a handicap basis will claim the Swiftsure Trophy. There are also trophies for Class AA, Class A, Class BB, and Class B winners.

Funeral Home Zone Approved

City council yesterday gave council his client had tried final approval to creation of a funeral home zone on the south side of Fort Street in spite of the protests of an estimated 85 per cent of adjacent property owners.

The rezoning was passed on behalf of Chaplin's Funeral Chapel, 560 Quadra, whose present location is destined for park development as part of the Cathedral Hill Civic Precinct project.

ADJACENT TO SITE

Objections to the rezoning bylaw were voiced by residents and owners in the area and through counsel for other owners.

W. H. Haldane, solicitor for the owner of The Connoisseur Shop, 1156 Fort, said 85 per cent of property owners adjacent to the site have protested the creation of a new funeral home zone at 1153 and 1147 Fort, a short distance east of Cook Street.

Lynn V. Gale, holder of a mortgage on nearby property, said construction of a funeral home there would destroy real estate values.

Solicitor Alan E. Bigelow, representing Chaplin's, told

Girlie Shows Disgrace

Presence of "girlie shows" in Victoria is a disgrace, an alderman told city council yesterday.

Ald. Michael Griffin said he saw no place in Victoria for such shows as one which was part of the midway at last week's annual Jaycee fair.

He said young lads had been seen "mooching in the place."

Mayor Percy Scurrah said he did not believe it was necessary to draw the subject to the attention of Jaycees. "They are not happy about it either."

Hopes are high that the congregation of St. John's Anglican Church will be back in the church for services about Labor Day.

The structure was burned out completely in a disastrous fire early last Dec. 9, but workmen of Farmer Construction Ltd. are making steady headway in rebuilding the historic church.

Passersby noted some time ago that the roof had been replaced. They cannot see the strides being made within. Under the roof, new beams are all in place. Re-pointing of the undamaged brickwork should be completed next week.

Pillars have been replaced and are awaiting finishing. New window-molding is being fabricated by workmen on the church's new floor, and in the basement drains are being placed under a flooring that will be 10 inches above the former level.

In about two weeks passersby will note another replacement: glass going in on the side windows. This will be a fine wire-glass which will be installed like storm windows, and which will remain as a protection for the stained glass to go in later.

Translucent cathedral glass will be used in the higher level windows, and the huge windows at the front, through which afternoon sun shines directly across the length of the building to the altar, will be of special, glare-proof Belgian glass.

This is due for installation about the end of June.

Bigger basement windows will let the light in through glass bricks.

Downtown Parking Crisis

600-Car Garage Plan Wins Council Approval

$1,000,000 Answer

By TERRY HAMMOND

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday unfolded a $1,000,000 lease-purchase solution to Victoria's downtown parking crisis and won instant approval of the plan from an enthusiastic city council.

The scheme stems from a Vancouver construction company's offer to build two parking garages here and lease them to the city for 20 years. After the lease expired the buildings would be city property.

BY COMPASSION

The garages would provide parking space for 600 cars and could be in operation before the end of this year. By comparison, the Hudson's Bay Company's two-storey parking lot holds 426 cars.

City council took immediate steps to implement the proposal in one of three ways:

● The two parking garages would be financed and built by Victoria contractors.

● One of the two would be built by Victoria contractors and the other by Dominion Construction Ltd. of Vancouver.

● Both would be built by Dominion Construction.

The Vancouver firm already owns the site for one of the garages and has optioned the site for the second. Under terms of the offer the option on the second site would be relinquished at cost to any local contractor designated by city council.

PICK UP OPTION

If a local contractor made the city an acceptable offer for both buildings it could pick up the option on one but would have to buy its own site for the other.

Location of the two buildings was chosen by the Victoria Advisory Parking Commission, whose report on the city's five-year downtown parking needs was released simultaneously with the lease-back proposal yesterday.

A 600-car garage would be erected near Blanshard and View and a 200-car garage near View and Langley.

FIRST HINT

First hint of an off-street parking plan financed by private capital came about three weeks ago when Mayor Scurrah told reporters he would shortly unfold a scheme which would provide a downtown parking solution "at no cost to the taxpayer."

Cost of leasing the parking garages would be recovered from motorists who use them.

On the basis of preliminary estimates made by City Man-

2,000 Car Parks Needed by City

Downtown Victoria must have 2,000 additional short-term parking spaces during the next five years and 800 of them immediately, according to the Victoria Advisory Parking Commission.

The commission, set up by city council seven weeks ago at the request of Mayor Scurrah, completed its study of the five-year downtown parking needs of the city a week ago and its report was released yesterday.

Simultaneously, the mayor outlined to council the private-capital plan to provide the area with some 600 of the 800 additional parking spaces required immediately.

Commission recommended immediate development of two parking garages, one on View between Blanshard and Douglas, and the other in the area bounded by Fort, Government, Yates and Wharf.

Construction of the View Street garage should be accompanied by provision of direct pedestrian access to Fort and Yates, the commission's report states.

Second phase of development in the five-year plan would be provision of parking facilities in the block bounded by Yates, Blanshard, Douglas and Johnson, followed by garages at Broad and Cormorant (site of a one-level city parking lot) and near Government and Courtney.

A fifth garage near Broughton and Quadra would be developed.

'Klondike Nights' to Prepare Princess for Alaska Run

When the CPR coastal steamer Princess Louise sets out this weekend for a summer on the Alaska run, it will carry memories of a highly appropriate "initiation."

Friday and Saturday evenings will be "Klondike Nights" aboard the ship, run by the Victoria Rotary Club to promote the work of Goodwill Enterprises in the city.

Rotarians and Rotary-Annees, dressed in costumes of the Gay '90's, will welcome guests aboard each evening. Admission, $3.50 per person, includes a smorgasbord dinner starting at 7:30 p.m. in the dining salon.

In addition there will be dancing and games of chance.

The Princess Louise has been made available to the club free of charge by the CPR to help with this project to promote self-employment of handicapped persons. The ship will be moored at the CPR wharf.

Tickets are available at club headquarters, 816 Wharf; at 1125 Blanshard, 774 Fort, 2891 Douglas or 737 Yates.

Tall Story by Pearson Hails Perfect Party Man

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

Mainly about the byelection ... or, when Friday comes on Monday be far behind?

PARTY FIERY: According to Lester B. Pearson, most Liberals put the interests of the party ahead of everything else—even themselves.

To illustrate the point he told the story of the four important Liberal MPs who were returning from a curling trip when their car hit an icy patch and skidded sideways towards a tree.

"They knew they weren't going to make it," said Mr. Pearson.

"Then the driver, with what might have been his last words on this earth, turned around to the three terrified men and with a grin exclaimed: 'I wonder how these four byelections are going to go?'"

SIGN LANGUAGE:

Society poster at Sidney boasts George Hahn as the Social Credit candidate ... And then CFAA goofed by putting out notices in large letters advertising broadcasts by George Hahn ... One person, grabbing a late-night snack at Paul's, is apparently divided in his party loyalties. His car bears signs of both the New Party and the Liberals ... The Colonist also gets mixed up sometimes. Yesterday they were still advertising Wednesday's meeting of Lester B. Pearson's.

THE WAILING CALL: If nothing else, the events of the last few days have finally shaken George Chatterton's Conservative workers out of their lethargy.

They are now regretting their abrupt refusal of professional organizing help in the early days of the campaign when they were sure that no matter what happened their victory was in the bag.

Now they're not so sure.

COUNTED OUT: It would appear the afternoon paper gets a little too liberal when it comes to estimating the number of people who attend than it was?

SWEET SMELL OF SUCCESS: If Liberal campaign manager Allan Cox is successful or even comes close in getting David Gross elected Monday you can count on his being named as a Liberal candidate in a not-too-distant election.

The sharp young city lawyer has already got one impressive victory under his belt after managing the campaign of Alan Macfarlane in Oak Bay last September.

BRIEFLY NOTED:

Similarity of the oratory styles of Highway Minister Phil Gaglardi and B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault is amazing. Close your eyes and you can hardly tell which one is speaking ... Friend of ours mentioned yesterday that the growing strength of David Gross is the result of the same sort of thing which makes Don Messer's Jubilee the most-watched television show in Canada. The folksy approach ... Lester Pearson last week got the shortest introduction of all time from a chairman named Phil Murphy, who said: "Stand up. You're on!"

Island Saddled with High Fuel Costs

COURTESY—A major oil company official offered little hope yesterday of any improvement in the difference between Vancouver Island and mainland gasoline prices.

J. D. Urquhart, Pacific region sales manager for Imperial Oil, told the Chamber of Commerce any cut in Vancouver Island prices would require raising Lower Mainland prices.

Lower Mainland motorists would raise one of the biggest noise that has been heard in the country," he said.

"They would object to subsidizing the price to motorists elsewhere."

Present differential is 8.1 cents a gallon between Courty and the lowest retail price in Vancouver, he said.

Mr. Urquhart said Vancouver motorists were enjoying an unusual bargain brought about by competitive pressures from private brands and the large volume of sales.

Depressed prices established by the gas war of two years ago likely would continue for some time, he said.

W. H. Bailey, chamber executive member, suggested higher island prices were helping to subsidize mainland motorists.

Mr. Urquhart replied his company had absorbed most of the "drop" from the price war.

Recent suggestions that the oil industry in B.C. should be brought under control of the Public Utilities Commission would destroy competition, he said. Oil was not a utility like gas or electricity where the customer has only one choice of supply and as a single source of supply required government regulation, he said.

The company is sending speakers to various parts of the province to give the public a better understanding of the industry as a result of questions raised in the last legisla-

CAMPBELL RIVER—An injunction is being sought in the B.C. Supreme Court to halt picketing of new Quads ferry slip construction, it was learned yesterday.

Two pickets yesterday said they were "deprived" of the picketing work when a B.C. highways maintenance crew was put on the job.

Parksville Marks Holiday Saturday

PARKSVILLE—The 20th annual May Day celebration, here promises to be bigger and better than ever on Saturday at the Community Park and hall.

Highlights of the afternoon will be the crowning of May Queen Judy Clark by last year's Queen Irene Bob, and from then on Queen Judy will reign over a series of programs of entertainment, which will be climaxed by a gala May Queen's Ball at 9 p.m.

A parade through the business section of the village will start the celebration at 1:30 p.m. and so far 10 organizations have entered floats with six commercial floats scheduled to appear.

Three bands will provide marching music for the parade—the Canadian Scottish from Victoria, Royal Canadian Air Force band from Comox and a Sea Cadet band.

Marching units will include a unit of Canadian Scottish from Nanaimo, Nanaimo and Parksville Air Cadets, both junior and senior majorette teams from Nanaimo, Duncan Girls' Drill Team, Mt. Arrowsmith Canadian Legion and other local groups. Also in the parade will be maypoles.

Crucial Vote June 10

Crofton, Westholme Could Scuttle Hospital

CHEMAMUS—Crofton and Westholme residents could defeat the proposed $3,650,000 Cowichan District Hospital when ratepayers vote June 10.

Involved in the hospital project are Duncan, the municipality of North Cowichan, the Koksalah Valley Hospital Improvement District and the Lake Cowichan Hospital Improvement District.

In order for the hospital vote to pass, Duncan and North Cowichan must have a 60 per cent majority while the two improvement districts must obtain 66 2/3 per cent majority.

ALL MUST APPROVE—Should one of the four areas not obtain the required majority, the plebiscite is defeated.

Crofton and Westholme is backed by the Chemamus General Hospital Board, and is now preparing to block passage of the plebiscite.

B. L. Shaw, Chemamus hospital administrator, said yesterday, "The residents in Crofton and Westholme have had the Cowichan district hospital rammed down their throats."

BOARD WILL APPEAL—

He said his board will appeal to the provincial government to have Crofton and Westholme excluded from the proposed hospital area.

"For in the advent of Chemamus wanting a new hospital in three to four years, it would be impossible to finance the project without Crofton and Westholme."

Mr. Shaw added that "the people in Crofton have a large auxiliary to the Chemamus hospital. They are very concerned about this June 10 vote."

IN CHEMAMUS DISTRICT?

He claimed that until recently no one in the Chemamus area realized that Crofton and Westholme would be part of the Cowichan hospital scheme.

The hospital administrator said "people in this area have been led to believe that they were part of the Chemamus hospital district."

Mr. Shaw promised that there will be "a lot more protesting before June 10."

CAN ONLY WAIT—

Claude Green, Cowichan hospital board chairman, explained that should one district fail to obtain the majority "all we can do is wait. As soon as we can set up the machinery for another plebiscite, we can submit it to the vote again."

Cowbirds On Galiano

GALIANO ISLAND—Birdwatchers sighted a small flock of cowbirds near the Galiano Lodge during the past week. This is a rare sight. These birds are usually seen in the drier spots of Canada.

Future 'Olympians' Tested at June Meet

DUNCAN—Possible Olympic material will be in action at the Cowichan Valley Athletic Club's first track meet here June 10.

The track and field sports will be open to boys and girls between 11 and 17 years.

The track meet, to be held at Cowichan High School, is the beginning of a scheme to implement a Junior Olympic training plan by the B.C. Command Canadian Legion.

OLYMPIC HOPESFUL—

The provincial organization hopes that the training plan will discover new Olympic hopefuls for future Canadian teams.

Winners of the June 10 meet will proceed to zone meetings with the finals at Pacific National Exhibition.

FOUR CLASSES—

There will be four classes—pre-teen, bantam, midget and juvenile. Events will include discus, shotput, high and broad jump, softball throw plus sprints and the mile.

Entry forms can be obtained from Bob Bell, Cowichan branch secretary of the Canadian Legion.

Each of the 2,000 species of frogs has a distinctive call that lures only females of the same species.

Mr. Todd will take over his new position on Aug. 1. He has served as schools chairman for the Cowichan Teachers' Association.

Committees Start Work on Hospital

LADYSMITH—Two committees with responsibilities for Ladysmith General Hospital's expansion program, now in the formative stage, will hold meetings soon.

The planning committee meets with architect Donald Wagg of Victoria to go over hospital plans June 1. The community ways and means committee set up to organize the raising of local funds meets June 8.

Planning committee members are Ian Peddie, hospital administrator; Mrs. Eleanor Campbell, matron; Dr. R. J. Stirling, medical staff; board members D. H. McKay, Mrs. G. B. Lytton, John Underwood and ways and means representative Stanley Heys.

Todd Named Inspector

DUNCAN—Principal of George Bonner High School for the last three years, David P. Todd has been appointed an inspector of schools in the Cowichan school district.

Mr. Todd will take over his new position on Aug. 1. He has served as schools chairman for the Cowichan Teachers' Association.

New Impetus Will Cost U.S. Billions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Americans Thursday to shoulder new multi-billion-dollar burdens to conquer space and extend foreign aid.

In an extraordinary State of the Union message delivered in person to Congress, Kennedy said the U.S. must aim to land a man on the moon this decade.

AID INCREASE

He said it must speed work on the Rover nuclear rocket which some day may help explore "the very ends of the solar system."

And he called for:

- A step-up in foreign aid.
- A tripling of funds for nuclear fallout shelters and other protective measures.
- Revamping and strengthening of military forces, especially their ability to fight brush-type battles or guerrilla warfare.

- More money for propaganda broadcasts.
- A new drive for disarmament.

- A new program to re-train Americans left jobless by automation.

THE PRICE

The price of all that he set at $1,500,000,000 in the coming fiscal year and many more billions later. For example, he said the speeded-up space drive will cost an additional $7,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 over the next five years and will go on for many years.

NO NEW TAXES

Kennedy asked no new taxes. In fact, he took the position that his "very urgent requests" could be met "without a budget deficit if our economy moves ahead."

The president was interrupted several times by applause, notably when he proclaimed that the economy is looking up.

'RECESSION HALTED'

"The recession has been halted. Recovery is underway," he said.

Though recovery is underway, unemployment is "a major social evil," he said, and hence:

"I am transmitting to the Congress a new manpower development and training program, to train or retain several hundred thousand workers in new occupational skills over a four-year period, in order to replace those skills made obsolete by automation and industrial change with the new skills which new processes demand."

MILITARY BOOST

Other proposals:
Economic aid abroad — a $200,000,000 increase, bringing the total for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to $2,650,000,000.

Military aid abroad — a $250,000,000 increase over previous requests of $1,600,000,000.

Space — for the coming year $479,000,000 additional to work on the moon project, hasten development of the nuclear space rocket, speed up the use of satellites for world communications and weather observation.

REVIEW CALLED

Intelligence — "Our whole intelligence effort must be reviewed, and its co-ordination with other elements assured."

Integration — he called on Americans to "show friendliness to students and visitors from other lands."

Bennett Optimistic About Columbia After Fleming Chat

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Thursday night he is optimistic about the progress of the Columbia River hydro-electric development after private talks Thursday with federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Both spoke at a meeting of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association.

A spokesman for Premier Bennett said the premier and Mr. Fleming talked mainly about financing of the giant project. The meeting was described as "short but harmonious."

Mr. Fleming indicated later that efforts will be made in the next two weeks to select a date for another meeting.

British Columbia wants federal permission to export surplus hydroelectric power on a leased basis.

"TRADITIONAL"

In his speech, Premier Bennett said his province considers it urgent that the federal government "bring up to date" its export policy on hydroelectric power.

"I am referring, of course, to the traditional opposition of national governments to the export of surplus hydroelectric power," Mr. Bennett said.

NON-RENEWABLE

The premier said natural gas, oil and coal all were exported.

"Every one of these resources is used to produce power," he added, "and every one of them is non-renewable; the day will surely come when we will have no more gas, oil or coal either for export or even for our own use."

NUCLEAR SCARE LAID TO GRITS

Pearson Hit By Harkness

By PETER BRUTON

Defence Minister Douglas Harkness last night accused Liberal Leader Lester Pearson of trying to frighten and alarm people about nuclear weapons and defence.

"This action I deplore," he told an audience of 120 at Cordova Bay.

Canada's primary aim, he said, was to try to bring about agreement on world disarmament. If this was successful, there would be no need for nuclear weapons.

"In the meantime there is no need to make a decision in this regard," said the minister, speaking in support of Conservative candidate George Chatterton.

Even if Canada did decide to acquire nuclear weapons, there was no chance of any of the types planned starting off a nuclear war, he continued.

"They can only be used as defensive weapons," stated Mr. Harkness. "Talk of Canada joining the nuclear club is just propaganda and has no real validity. Prudence requires we should have carriers which can be equipped with nuclear warheads if this terrible necessity ever arises."

'Arrow Great Mistake'

During his speech Mr. Harkness:

- Charged Mr. Pearson with advocating Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons three years ago.
- Said Liberal defence policy was to do away with the RCN's destroyer-escorts and make the navy "some sort of glorified merchant marine."

• Described development of the Avro Arrow jet interceptor as probably one of the greatest mistakes any government has ever made.

• Termined the Conservatives the only party with a clear defence policy.

- Stated Canada must remain in NATO and NORAD.
- Blamed "the Liberal press" for trying to create the impression that he and External Affairs Minister Howard Green were at odds over nuclear weapons.

Mr. Harkness said the nuclear weapons for the three types of carriers Canada had on order could never be used as offensive weapons.

He said there never had been any intention of Canada obtaining big offensive nuclear weapons "and Mr. Pearson knows that."

'Pearson Memory Bad'

Reading excerpts from Hansard of 1958, the minister said the Liberal leader had openly urged Canada to get nuclear weapons for its forces at that time.

"Now he's trying to frighten and alarm people about nuclear weapons and defence... Nobody knows where the Liberals stand."

"Every time Mr. Pearson has made a speech since the Liberal rally last January he has changed his position. He changes his position. He squirms and he wiggles. He has been going here and there, in and out until you don't know what his position is," said the minister.

"The record of Mr. Pearson is one in which no one could take any pride. He either has a very bad memory or a great capacity to delude himself," he added.

Mr. Harkness stated "The time to make the decision

(about acquiring nuclear weapons) is when the time comes."

Referring to the Liberal leader's remarks about the scrapping of the Avro Arrow jet interceptor, the defence minister stated that the planes would have cost $15,000,000 each and that the huge cost would have meant scrapping much of the army and navy strength.

"The cost would have been astronomical," he said.

"Under these circumstances I don't think anyone can take Mr. Pearson seriously any more," he said. "You can be sure what he says today won't be what he is saying a month from now."

Mr. Harkness said Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer had urged the replacement of Canada's destroyer-escorts and to acquire combat troop carriers and supply ships in their place.

'Purpose to Prevent War'

"The Liberal policy, as I see it, is to convert our navy into some sort of glorified merchant marine," he said.

The minister stated that Canada's destroyer-escorts were probably the finest in the world and the RCN's major role is anti-submarine warfare for which these ships are designed.

A large number of people, he said, had come to look upon armed forces equipment as the whole gamut of defence policy. There would always be arguments.

"Our forces at present are based on commitments we have made to NATO, NORAD and for any work we may be called upon to do for the United Nations," said Mr. Harkness.

During the past three or four years the government had been "quite rapidly" re-equipping all the armed forces, he said.

But, he emphasized, the primary purpose of all our armed forces was to prevent a war.

"The Conservative government is the only party in Canada which has a clear and definite defence policy and one readily understood by everyone," he said.

This policy had two objectives:

To maintain peace and;

To ensure that this country was not subjected to a foreign power and a way of life completely foreign.

These objectives could be met through NATO and NORAD.

"No country can adequately defend itself by itself, not even the U.S.," he said. "You can't."

Cafe Blast Hurts Seven

WINNIPEG (CP)—At least seven persons were injured Thursday night when an explosion ripped apart a restaurant on Main Street in north-end Winnipeg.

The Prague Cafe was open and occupied at the time of the blast, which tore the roof off the building and sent flames shooting into the sky. Several other buildings were damaged.

Fire Chief Dave Dunnett said he could not be certain, but he did not think anyone was trapped in the restaurant.

Dip in Juvenile Crime First in Many Years

OTTAWA (CP)—The first decrease in many years in the number of juveniles involved in criminal offences is noted in the RCMP's annual report for the year ended March 31, 1960, made public Thursday.

The number involved in Criminal Code offences totalled 6,655, a decrease of 269 or 4.3 per cent from the previous year.

Alaska-B.C. Link Closer

WASHINGTON (CP)—A report calling for a vast program of rail and highway communications between Alaska and the rest of the United States across Canada was recommended to Congress Thursday.

FINAL REPORT

The long-range transportation program, which would also include water links, would cost an estimated $325,000,000. It was recommended in the final report of the Alaska international rail and highway commission.

Senator Warren Magnuson, Democrat from the state of Washington, presented the report to the U.S. Senate.

Magnuson emphasized that the plan could be realized only with the co-operation of Canada. The report suggests that the U.S. state secretary undertake negotiations with the Canadian government.

Specifically, Magnuson said, the report calls for:

- The construction of a hard-surfaced highway system to serve Alaska, British Columbia and the Yukon and to provide a shorter highway than the existing Alaska Highway.
- The extension of the Alaska railroad to the Alaska-British Columbia border to connect eventually with a Canadian railway.

No Marx In Their Program!

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Communist party of Manitoba has volunteered to step forward and teach the Red credo in the red school-houses of Canada in answer to a call by the RCAF Association for courses on communism.

This wasn't quite what the RCAF Association had in mind, a spokesman said last night. The course it recommended was "the dangers of communism."

Europe 'Split' Rapped

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sir Oliver Franks, British banker, insurance executive and former ambassador to the United States said Thursday in an interview here, division of Western Europe into the Outer Seven and Inner Six trading areas is nonsense.

"It is against the natural flow of trade. I would be surprised if it is a long-term permanent state of affairs."

Sir Oliver will receive an honorary degree at the University of British Columbia today.

He said he saw little likelihood of Britain joining the European Common Market.

Senator Lambasts Firms For Jobs Discrimination

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator David Croll lambasted Canadian big business Thursday for practicing what he called discrimination against minority groups in filling executive positions.

The Ontario senator also hit out at the trend toward amalgamation of big corporations, and at discrimination favoring men over women in business.

AGAINST TREND

Senator Croll spoke as the upper chamber passed a bill authorizing the Canada Permanent Company to amalgamate with the Toronto General Trust Corporation. The bill now goes before the Commons.

The lawyer-senator said he wasn't against the bill just the trend it represented.

'Minorities Ignored'

"To me it is disturbing and alarming to find that more and more economic power is becoming centralized in fewer and fewer hands."

Senator Croll named no specific companies as practicing discrimination toward minority groups but he lambasted particularly banks, mortgage, insurance and trust companies.

MATTER OF RACE

"Few banks, mortgage companies, insurance and trust companies have permitted their high executive positions and directorates to be filled by men whose racial origins differ from that of Anglo-Saxon."

The 61-year-old senator came to Canada from Moscow at the age of five and is Canada's first Jewish senator.

Senator Croll said the thinking seems to be that it's all right to do business with minorities but keep them from going as far as their capabilities would and should take them.

'BLIND ALLEY'

"This sort of reactionary exclusiveness has no place in nation-building or organizational concept and permanence, and these managerial groups who are attempting to perpetuate themselves are leading us down a blind alley."

As for women, he said, "you would almost think they were non-existent."

10,000 Homeless In Singapore Fire

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Fire raged through a square mile of Singapore's Chinatown squatter district Thursday, destroying the homes of 10,000 persons.

Two persons were known dead in the densely populated

Tong Bahru area on the outskirts of this island state.

Tens of thousands of spectators flocked to the scene, hampering efforts of firefighters to bring the flames under control. Ashes fell over much of Singapore.

It was believed damage would exceed $3,000,000.
